Proposed Law Will Enable

Washington — (CPA) — President Hoover's original proposal that federal appropriations be devoted to "rehabilitation" in the drought area has been accepted.

The agreement that has been reached between Capitol Hill and the White House to dispose of the drought legislation carries with it an understanding on the part of the president that all appropriation bills will be passed and thus an extra session avoided.

There is much talk of "compromise," but when the situation is analyzed the word "conciliation" describes better the spirit of the conferences of the latter part of last week. The president has wanted from the beginning to get the agricultural credit corporations more strongly into the picture in the drought area but the insistence on food loans made an agreement difficult and so the plan was side-tracked. What has happened now is that broad powers will be given to the secretary of agriculture to help the agricultural credit corporations to take care of all situations that might arise in which individuals are embarrassed because of the condition of farms in the drought area.

Nature of Agreement
In other words, the Red Cross will continue to take care of cases purely out of charity where the individual is in distress and has no resources. To this extent, the president has won his point. But on the other hand there are many individuals who can give security for loans, although not the kind of collateral which the banks will take, and there are also many instances in which the banks are not strong enough to make loans even on good security.

The net effect of the proposed legislation is to set up an agricultural machinery which will enable the department of agriculture to furnish a loan to anybody who has the resources or who potentially is a good risk and will pay back the loan. Undoubtedly there will be some losses, but the government would prefer to have been in the position of making loans rather than of extending charity. The manner in which the Democrats have accepted the new proposals indicates clearly that the two points of view have been reconciled.

There are of course always possibilities that veterans' legislation or some other unlooked for controversy may cause an extra session but in the last two days it has grown apparent that Democratic leaders are going to work with the administration to prevent an extra session, hence, only the so-called irregulars in both parties might force an extra session and at present there is no sign that any of them wish to take the responsibility of such a step. The position of the insurgent Republicans has frequently been misrepresented as being insistent upon an extra session. While there are here and there individuals who may feel that way about it, there is no sign of any concerned action. Certainly the prospects for an avoidance of the extra session have become bright through the better understanding that appears to have been reached by congress and the chief executive.

RAILWAY'S CLAIM UPHELD
St. Paul — (CP) — Federal Judge E. Sanborn today upheld the Great Northern railway in its contention opposing payment of a claim of $2,000,000 filed against it by the government as a result of the war-time operation of the road by the railroad administration.

BUTLER NOT TO FACE FEDERAL COURT MARTIAL

Expresses Regret for Remarks About Duce and Draws Reprimand

Washington — (CP) — Charges lodged against Major General Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps, before plans for his court martial were dropped yesterday alleged "conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline," and "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Details of the formal charges were disclosed today after it had leaked out that the marine general had spent last Saturday in Washington, and that the decision to abandon the court martial had reached Saturday night after secret conferences between Butler, his counsel and high government officials.

The charges contained nearly 1,000 words. Reviewing the circumstances of Butler's speech before the contemporary club in Philadelphia, the specifications said the statements "were of a nature to give offense to the government of Italy, to bring the prime minister of a friendly government into contempt and disrepute, and to embarrass the government of the United States in its foreign relations."

In the second count, the charges said Butler "exhibited culpable indifference to his obligations as an officer and a gentleman by knowingly, wilfully and publicly repeating and circulating the aforesaid hearsay and derogatory statements, which he, the said Butler, then and there well knew tended to vilify, offend and insult the aforesaid Signor Mussolini, both as an individual and as prime minister."

Washington — (CP) — At the request of state department officials, the navy department has furnished Ambassador de Martino of Italy a copy of the correspondence between Secretary Adams and Major General Smedley D. Butler relative to the calling off of the marine officer's court martial.

The trial, which was scheduled to start a week from today in Philadelphia, was ordered canceled.

SAYS FARM BOARD HAS
"SEAT ON EXCHANGE"

Washington — (CP) — Senator Thomas contended in the senate today the farm board has indirectly taken a seat on the Chicago Grain exchange, "buying and paying for it with federal money."

The board's activities were criticized, particularly by senators from the cotton states, during debate on proposals to amend the independent offices appropriation bill to prevent use of farm board funds for speculation.

Hundreds Still Needed To Reach Red Cross Quota

Outagamie county's subscriptions passed the $300 mark with the contributions received up to this morning but the quota of $1,000 still is far off, and this county still is lagging far behind many others in the state. The national quota is $10,000,000 for relief of suffering in the drought areas and newspaper dispatches indicate that this will be far from sufficient.

Brown-co has raised thus far in excess of $1,100 toward its quota of $1,400 and expects to reach that figure in a few days. Other nearby counties also are making very excellent progress toward reaching their quotas.

Railroad companies, after a survey of conditions in the drought states, have offered to haul free of charge all carload shipments of food to the stricken areas. Thus far the American Red Cross has received contributions of 128 carloads of food, in addition to the money subscribed but the relief sent in is only scratching the surface. So great is the need that Red Cross chapters are sending in the money as rapidly as it is received so that it can be applied to the relief work.

Up to date about $6,200,000 has been contributed toward the $10,000,000 national quota and satisfactory progress is being made in many places. Outagamie county was not listed among those places.

In the stricken states Red Cross volunteers are working without pay to take care of the suffering people. The states have been divided into small districts with corps of volunteer workers, operating under careful supervision, in charge of each district.

Outagamie county people are invited to send their contributions to the Appleton Post-Crescent or to the Red Cross, P. M. Conkey, secretary. Checks should be made payable to the Red Cross.

In addition to the contributors named heretofore the following have made contributions.
F. H. Rogers, A. J. Sorenson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Wettengel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank St. Andrews, Mrs. Henrietta Kirchner, Barbara Ann Wettengel, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ryan, Pat Gerarden.

WILL ROGERS FUND
GROWS TO $183,027

Humorist-Cowboy Goes to Arkansas After Touring
Texas, Oklahoma

Tulsa, Okla. — (CP) — Will Rogers turned to Arkansas today after having bagged a relief fund of $183,027 in a two-week tour of Texas and Oklahoma for the southwest's drought and unemployment victims.

The erstwhile Oklahoma cowboy bartered his barbs here last night for $25,000, the largest single pot of his charity tour.

The humorist, transported by Capt. Frank Hawks, noted speed flier, had three engagements in Arkansas today, at Fayetteville, Rogers and Ford Smith. He said he planned to give a performance at Little Rock Tuesday night and to fly Wednesday to Fort Worth, Texas, enroute to Hollywood to begin work on a new picture.

SEEK TO TRACE CAUSE OF BLAZE IN CALIFORNIA

Several Persons Unaccounted for but Believed to
Be Unharmed

Oakland, Calif. — (CP) — At least four persons perished and possibly 46 of the finest horses of the west were burned to death here today when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the sixth annual Oakland horse show housed in temporary wooden structures and tents back of the civic auditorium.

The known dead:
John L. Thoms, 60, an employee of the Carnation Farm stables, Pomona, Calif.; Michael McCarthy, employee of the Carnation stables, and two unidentified men.

Several other persons were unaccounted for but as no additional bodies had been found it was believed they were safe and had merely failed to report.

The fire damage was estimated by show officials at $325,000 of which $300,000 represented lost horses and $25,000 equipment.

Reports that a woman was missing in the fire lacked confirmation.

Fire authorities said they detected the smell of gasoline while fighting the flames, but had no definite evidence of incendiarism.

A fire said to have been incinerated was found in the show building the opening night and promptly quenched.

Barns full of plunging, snorting, squealing horses made the scene, a bedlam. Some of the prize animals broke through to the open air with hair and flesh afire. Policemen shot them down to end their agony.

McCarthy was believed to have died in an attempt to save Carnation Lavendula, a $35,000 horse.

Harold P. Ryan, one of the attendants, was injured. Ryan said he saw a man burn to death in a stall. The Oakland show is considered one of the major events of its kind in the far west. Entries included horses of Bridgford Brothers of Joy, Ill.; Harry Gorman, Morris, Ill.; Alene Martell, Oak Park, Ill.; George J. Peak and Sons, Winchester, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. William D. Radford, of Chicago; Jeanette Taylor, Lovelock, Nev., and D. G. Welty, Lincoln, Neb.

Discribes Tragedy
How blue-blooded horses, trapped in their stalls, burned to death was related by Lawrence Burton, an employee of the Carnation Farm stables.

"I was sleeping in a stall with five other fellows," said Burton, "to be close to the horses. The first I knew of the fire was when I heard a watchman running through the buildings shouting.

"There was smoke all around me. Horses were plunging every way. I tried to stand but fell back when a horse brushed against me.

"I was stifling and I could hardly breathe. Men were running and crying and cursing all around me. I finally got to my feet and grabbed two horses, but I couldn't budge them. One of them fell on me and I went down under it. I didn't think I'd be able to get out but I finally forced my leg from under the horse and got up and ran for the doors.

"There were horses kicking against the stalls and falling all around. I put a handkerchief across my mouth so I could breathe. Just as I went through the door a whole section of the roof fell in."

STATE LIQUOR SALE ASKED IN 2 BILLS UP IN NEW MEXICO

Santa Fe, N. M. — (CP) — State manufacture and sale of liquor is proposed in companion measures to be introduced in the New Mexico house and senate. The bills would create a New Mexico state dispensary for the manufacture of liquor with restricted sale to permit holders. The bills are based upon a contention that there is nothing in the 18th amendment, the Volstead act, or the constitution of the state of New Mexico to prohibit the state from manufacturing and selling liquors for other than beverage purposes.

In the senate, the bill is sponsored by Representative J. P. Branson, merchant of Thoreau, who evolved the idea after long studies of the federal and state constitutions.

Three Killed When Car, Train Crash

Shawano — (CP) — Two sisters and their escort were killed last night when their car in which they were going to a party collided with a Northwestern passenger train near here. John Muske, 18, driver of the car, died in a Green Bay hospital today.

The sisters, Ruth, 18, and Norma Kroenke, 16, were daughters of a Red River farmer, Gus K. Kroenke. With several other young people, in three cars, they were bound for a party here. The first car in the group passed over the intersection before the train reached it. It was not known whether Muske failed to see the train or attempted to beat it across the grade crossing.

Ruth was instantly killed and Norma died at a Green Bay hospital shortly after the accident.

ARRAIGN DEER HUNTER FOR FATAL SHOOTING

Park Falls, Wis. — (CP) — On his second arraignment for fourth degree manslaughter growing out of the killing of Valentine Madonia, his neighbor, Michael Leopold today waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to circuit court under $2,000 bond.

The case will be heard the first Monday in April. The arraignment today was before a Police Justice M. D. Hinshaw. It followed Leopold's dismissal by Justice C. A. Nelson for lack of evidence.

Marzias was shot near his home during the deer hunting season, his friends claimed with malice aforethought. Leopold said, however, that he shot his neighbor accidentally, thinking he was a deer.

WOODCOCK GIVES HIS VIEWS ON DRY LAW

St. Paul — (CP) — Amos W. Woodcock, federal prohibition administrator, declared here today that personal prohibition cannot be enforced perceptibly except through curbing of commercial violations of the liquor laws.

Mr. Woodcock came here to confer with officials of eight prohibition districts and "anyone who is interested in prohibition." He expects to reach a decision on the permanent appointment of M. L. Harney, now acting as chief of the Eighth district.

Ex-Councilman Slain On Eve Of His Fourth Trial

Cleveland — (CP) — On the eve of his fourth trial growing out of the city land purchase grafts of two years ago, former Councilman W. L. Lam E. "Rarin" Pitt was found shot to death—a victim, Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said, of someone who feared his testimony.

Pitt's body was discovered in an east side apartment house last night with a six-shotted bullet in the head. He was to have gone on trial today charged with perjury in connection with his testimony in three previous land deal trials in which he was acquitted.

Prosecutor Miller said the motive for the killing would be found in the ramifications of the "Cleveland Club" playground purchase scandal, in which the city was a victim of $250,000 and for which another former councilman and his son were sent to the prison. Pitt was introduced in the prosecution for the purchase.

ORDER AUTOPSY AS UNGER DIES OF PNEUMONIA

District Attorney, Awaiting Report, May Call
Inquest

District Attorney Stanley A. Staidl was awaiting the outcome of an autopsy today to determine whether he would call an inquest into the death of Delbert Unger, 50, Hortonville, who died here late Sunday of pneumonia and a skull fracture.

Unger was found in the ditch on Highway 26 at the Hortonville city limits about 8 o'clock last Thursday morning by Village Marshal Kuhn. His skull was fractured and he was unconscious. Unger was brought to the hospital here where pneumonia developed as a result of the exposure the man had suffered. He died without regaining consciousness. The autopsy was ordered by District Attorney Staidl and Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, coroner, and was being performed by Dr. Ellsworth and Dr. D. M. Gallagher. A report was not expected until late Monday afternoon, when District Attorney Staidl will decide whether to hold an inquest.

It was first believed that Unger had been struck by a "hit and run" driver, but this theory was doubted Saturday when Sheriff John Lappin revealed that he suspected foul play. The sheriff said the nature of Unger's wound and the absence of other marks or contusions on his body made the theory of an auto accident improbable. He said Unger's body would have been otherwise marked if he had been struck by a car.

Robbery Suspected
The sheriff said he thought some thug waylaid Unger, with the intention of robbing him. Unger had been talking in the village, the sheriff said, of collecting some money due him by a former employer. The sheriff believes someone overheard him and, thinking he had collected the money, waylaid him. However, Unger failed to make the collection. Another reason for his theory the sheriff pointed out that the nature of Unger's wound led him to believe it could have been inflicted with a blunt instrument, such as a club. The skull was fractured just above the nose and the sheriff said he believed that scratches on the side of Unger's face were made when he fell to the ground.

Unger was last seen about 10 o'clock Wednesday night when he left a soft drink parlor in the village and started for the Julius farm, just outside the village limits, where he was employed as a farm hand. Officials think he was struck shortly after this time. He lay in the ditch all night the official believe, and the exposure caused him to contract pneumonia.

NEW QUAKES TERRORIZE NEW ZEALAND DISTRICT

Wellington, New Zealand — (CP) — Residents of the devastated Hawkes Bay district were terrified and driven from their temporary shelters by a new series of violent tremors today.

The quakes felled many buildings not wholly destroyed in last week's tremors and toppled piles of masonry, battered the beaches, forcing the panic-stricken inhabitants to higher ground.

Napier, Hastings and the Waikato district especially felt the shocks. The face of a bluff overlooking Napier was sheared off by a landslide. There were no casualties. Residents are living in tents and other temporary shelters. Communication lanes have been interrupted.

LETTER STOPS NEW THREAT IN UPPER HOUSE

Assures Robinson of Sympathetic Administration of Fund

NEW DEBATE IN HOUSE
Congress Turns Its Attention to Veterans'
Bonus Question

Washington — (CP) — President Hoover sent assurance to the Democrats today of a sympathetic administration of the $20,000,000 drought loan fund as this relief compromise was taken up by the senate.

With this assurance given in a letter to Senator Robinson, the minority leader, the Democratic chiefs, thus put their shoulders behind the compromise at the start of the drive for senate approval.

Meanwhile, Senate Republicans at a party conference determined to begin night sessions this week in a campaign to complete action on the appropriation bills before the March 4 adjournment to avoid an extra session.

The president's letter saved a threatened break up of the compromise agreement on relief, resulting from an unsolicited interpretation of the agreement by Secretary Hyde last Saturday. The secretary will administer the loan fund.

Considerable opposition to the compromise was in prospect from the ranks of the senate coalition. In the house Representative Parks, Democrat, Arkansas, declared his opposition to it.

Hoover Gives Position
The letter of President Hoover follows:

"The text of Mr. Hoover's letter to Senator Robinson follows:
"My Dear Senator:
"As to our conversation this morning I am glad to confirm at once that the proposed additional drought relief measure was suggested for the purpose of real aid to the weakened situation in the drought area, and that in the administration of it the secretary of agriculture assures me he has no other intention, and that he will interpret it fairly and sympathetically.
"Yours, faithfully,
"Herbert Hoover."

Parks told the house the compromise was "a shame and a fraud," and that none of the money could be given "to feed the 500,000 people in the bread lines because the secretary of agriculture will have to have security for the loans."

The broad line in Arkansas, he said, was growing and the relief agreement would not help.

Seek Early Action
Early house action on Democratic Leader Robinson's proposal to set aside $5,000,000 of the $20,000,000 fund to aid cooperatives to be financed through the immediate credit banks is to be sought by Chairman Hanes of the house agriculture committee. The measure is called for under the agreement reached by the senate and house conferees on the interior department annual supply bill, to which the added loan fund is attached.

Representative Parks notified his colleagues he would not be bound by the compromise and hoped that Senator Cavanaugh and La Follette of Wisconsin, would carry on "their fight for humanity."

The Arkansas said if the Arkansas legislature voted a $15,000,000 bond issue for relief purposes, it would be impossible to dispose of them because the people of the state could not repay them.

He said the administration had called on Harry Cough of Little Rock to aid in devising the compromise proposal and attacked this action.

Argue Yet's Relief
Veterans relief today took the place of drought measures as the chief legislative stumbling block for congress.

Senator Watson said the finance committee's decision to wait for the house to act on veterans' measures "brought no particular disapproval."

Bishop Cannon Freed Of Charges At Hearing Before Elders

FULL DETAILS OF PROBE ARE NOT REVEALED

One of Churchman's Accusers Calls Verdict of Elders "a Blunder"

Washington—(AP)—The senate campaign funds committee has decided to inquire into the handling of anti-Smith campaign funds in Virginia in 1928 by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Officials of three banks have been summoned to appear before the committee Wednesday afternoon to testify regarding the expenditure.

Bishop Cannon, exonerated Saturday of a series of unnamed charges by a committee of 12 elders of his church, testified before the senate lobby committee last year that he received over $25,000 from E. C. Jamieson of New York, for use in the drive against Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential candidate.

Only about half of this amount was accounted for, however, the bishop walking out on the committee without informing it what was done with the remainder.

Chairman Nye of the campaign funds committee, said today he would make every effort to trace the remainder of the anti-Smith fund. His committee recently was empowered to investigate 1928 campaign activities under a resolution by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia. The names of the summoned bank officials will be withheld pending receipt of notice of service of the subpoenas.

Washington—(AP)—After fighting his way to victory against serious accusations brought within his church, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., remained in a hospital today rebuilding his strength for a return to his duties.

The prohibition leader of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, had in a single-handed fight won from 12 clergymen Saturday night, a decision that the charges filed against him by four ministers did not justify a trial before the next general conference of the denomination in 1934.

One of his accusers, Dr. Costen J. Harrell of Richmond, Virginia, termed the verdict of the elders a "blunder," but the other three and the bishop himself maintained silence.

Harrell said the charges, which never were made public, were filed "for the cause of righteousness and for the church."

Sure They "Were Right" "We were sure at that time that we were right," he added. "After we heard the evidence in Washington this week, including some very astonishing admissions by Bishop Cannon, we were doubly sure that we were right. The committee did not vote with us, but time will doubtless reveal their blunder."

Bishop Cannon was free to resume charge of his church's board of temperance and social service as soon as his health permits. For months he has been undergoing treatment for a severe attack of arthritis, at Sibley hospital here and at a sanatorium in Marlin, Texas.

The decision of the church elders left open to Cannon's accusers an opportunity to present the accusations again at the 1934 conference but they made clear they had no intention of doing so. Besides Dr. Harrell, those who brought the charges were Dr. Forest J. Prettyman of Baltimore, Drs. I. P. Martin of Abingdon, Va., and J. T. Mastin of Richmond, Va. The hearing lasted five days, the sessions lasting into the night every time. Two days were taken by the bishop to defend himself, without presentations of a single witness.

CONSTRUCTION WORTH $1,000 AUTHORIZED

Although only $1,600 worth of building permits were issued last week by John N. Welland, building inspector, the total exceeded that of the same week in 1930 by almost $1,000. The year before only one permit, valued at $70 was granted.

FINE HEALTH RECORD CONTINUES IN CITY

VALLEY BOY SCOUTS PRESENT BROADCAST OVER STATION WHBY

500 Youngsters Gather at Meeting Places to Listen to Program

Approximately 500 valley council boy scouts gathered at their various meeting places at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon to listen to the "anniversary week" program broadcast by fellow scouts from Appleton, Clintonville, Marion and Menasha troops over station WHBY, St. Norbert's college, from the Appleton studio in the new Irving Zuelke building.

Several troops met at the homes of their scoutmasters, while others met at churches and public places, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, who arranged the broadcast. Birthday cakes were sent to the meeting places of the scouts by the executive board of the council.

One of the features of the broadcast was the ceremony in which the scouts renewed their pledges, and the ceremony was conducted by Mr. Clark.

The program opened with an assembly call by members of the scout drum and bugle corps, after which several selections were played by a joint band composed of scouts of Troop 9, Menasha Woodmenware Co., and Troop 14 of Menasha Congregational church.

A male quartet composed of four scouts of Troop 11, McKinley Junior high school, sang six selections, and Arthur Bohr, Marion scout, played popular selections on the piano. James Van Booy of Troop 6, St. Mary church, and Edward Everlein, Troop 4, American legion, also played several selections on the piano.

Jack Feaval, Troop 4, played three selections on his harmonica, and a group of numbers was presented by the "Noisy Ten" band of Troop 17, Seymour. The program closed with two selections, "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "On Wisconsin," played by the Menasha and Seymour bands.

PORTIONS OF MIDDLE WEST REMAIN ARID

Rain and Snow Brings Relief to Other Regions in Territory

Chicago—(AP)—Winter hinged through the middle west today, favoring some arid sections with moisture and discharging others.

Many sections of southern Illinois which have been faced during the past few months with alarming drought situations, were quenched with heavy to excessive rains.

The heavy precipitation in southern Illinois, however, left many other thirsty sections untouched. As much as it was, it hardly satisfied the parched fields of "Egypt," as southern Illinois is known.

Communities farther north in Illinois remained without rain—and have none in sight. Jacksonville, Ill., has banned water for bathing purposes on pain of having the supplies cut off.

The cities of Edinburg, in Christian-co, Fillmore, in Montgomery-co, and Carrier Mills, in Saline-co, reported themselves entirely without water today. Tank trucks have been used at Edinburg to transport a supply overland from Taylorville, Ill.

May Have to Shut Schools

Mayor P. O. Landon of Clintonville, Ill., predicted that unless rain arrives soon, farmers in his district were whipped before putting out their spring crops. "We may have to close the schools," he added.

Marion, Carbondale, West Frankfort, Benton, and Herrin, all of which have experienced alarming water shortages, enjoyed steady downpours. Small streams around Metropolis, Ill., where the rainfall reached 1.7 inches, were bountiful for the first time in a year. Rainfall at Johnston City and Anna, Ill., where farmers have been hauling water for their livestock during the past few months, was the heaviest in months.

The outlook in North Dakota, Minnesota was most encouraging. Fields were blanketed with snow. Lower and northern Michigan were to receive their portion of the snow sometime today.

Indications were that the skies of much of the middle west would be laden during the next couple days, although this will lead to little more than local snow and rainfalls.

Meanwhile reports came in that many portions of the southwestern states—Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas had received rain.

Slays Brother

Anton Riske, above, 17-year-old farm youth, is being held in solitary confinement at Stevens Point, Wis., following his confession that he murdered his brother, John, 25, in a dispute over use of Anton's car. John's body was recovered from the Wisconsin river through the same hole in the ice into which, it is charged, Anton had thrust it after killing his brother with a shotgun.

SEND THIRD LOAD OF FOOD TO INDIANS

The third load of food for the destitute Oneida Indians was sent out today by the Outagamie County Chapter of the Red Cross, according to Arthur Jensen, secretary. The Red Cross offered its aid after the plight of the Indians was brought to attention by a volunteer committee which visited Oneida and published the results of its investigation. The food is being distributed at Oneida by Pat Garvey, town chairman. Among the articles sent out today were five cases of canned peas. These were taken from a donation of 25 cases made to the Red Cross by the Fuhrmann Canning company of Appleton.

although this will lead to little more than local snow and rainfalls. Meanwhile reports came in that many portions of the southwestern states—Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas had received rain.

Sheriff Is Worried As Prison Population Grows

Three more prisoners were added to the growing population at the Outagamie-co jail this morning, and Sheriff John Lappen again is wearing that perplexed look.

Last week, when the prison population reached 16 men and one woman, the sheriff scratched his head and started figuring. The men's room at the jail will accommodate 12 prisoners. The women's quarters also were in use. What to do? He solved the problem by bringing the woman prisoner into his family's living quarters and utilizing the women's section for the surplus male prisoners. Now he has three more men to care for. If he should get more men the women's quarters would be filled too. And if he should get a woman or two, he would be at his wit's end.

HOLD RESPECT FOR LAWS, IS JURIST'S PLEA

Judge Graass Scores Those Who Advocate Disregard for Statutes

"The problem before the country today is the problem of law and order," said Judge Henry Graass, circuit judge of Green Bay at the vesper service Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church. The subject of his talk was crime.

"The doctrine that a law is not a law is dangerous and vicious, and disrespect for the law is due to a large number of causes, each of which aggravates and stimulates the others. Chief among these causes is the attitude of many officials and persons in high position toward the prohibition law, and those who advocate disregarding one law are advocating disrespect for all law."

The prohibition amendment is not an appendage to the constitution, but a part of it, declared the speaker, and as such is the supreme law of the land. He brought out the idea that, good or bad, it is the law, and must be obeyed.

The gangster and the racketeer defy the constitution, Judge Graass said. He told of the racket system in the larger cities of the country, stressing the fact that since 1922 racketeers have been arrested often but rarely convicted. He gave as an example a racketeer in the fish business who had been charged with everything from burglary to assault with intent to kill, but who had never been taken the rap.

Victims Don't Complain
"Victims of the racket system seldom complain to the police for fear they will be taken for a ride," said Judge Graass.

In fixing the responsibility for crime, the speaker said, "The man on the highway with his foot on the accelerator, who fails to exercise ordinary control, is helping to breed crime." Corrupt officials, lawbreakers, lawyers, and judges came in for their share of censure from Judge Graass who asked "When law breakers control law makers, what becomes of the law?"

"Crime, if we consider it a business, is the biggest business in the world," Judge Graass pointed out, and supported his statement with figures showing that in 1930 crime had cost over $3,500,000,000 in property loss, and over $10,000,000,000 in property loss and enforcement. The economic cost of crime in the United States exceeds the late war debt, he stated.

"Everyone pays tribute to crime, whether he will or not, whether he knows it or not," he said. "Taxes used to maintain prisons and other institutions necessary for the control of crime are constantly growing."

Judge Graass scouted the growing belief that all crime is due to the prohibition law, and scored those who advocate the return of legalized liquor as a cure for crime, saying that "what America needs is not liquor, but men, honest men, who have at heart the best interests of their country, who are strong enough to defend the right, whom money cannot buy."

SPORTSMEN OPPOSE LAKE LEVEL RAISE

The executive board of the Wisconsin Hunting and Fishing Protective association, an organization of sportsmen at Oshkosh, voted last week to fight the proposed raising of the level of Lake Winnebago to 21 1/2 inches above the crest of the government dam at Oshkosh. The level of the lake now is 15 inches above the dam, but the war department has ordered this level restored to 21 1/2 inches, following agitation for the raise among the lower Fox river valley cities.

The organization will send a representative to the public hearing at Menasha on Feb. 24 when the war department will hear proponents and opponents of the higher level. The cities of Oshkosh and Fond du Lac and the association for Relief of High Water at Oshkosh are opposing the raise, while the Fox River Valley League of Municipalities, an organization of the lower valley cities, wants the higher level.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.
Mr. L. E. Simmons, of 1434 1/2 Larimer St., Denver, Colo., says: "Tanlac made me relish and digest my food fine. It also cured me of gas, dizzy spells and nervousness. Now I sleep well and can put in as good a day's work as a youngster."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

SORE THROATS serious now:

A sore spot no larger than a quarter can spread to the whole throat overnight. Gargle the very moment you feel the least soreness. Physicians recommend Bayer Aspirin for this purpose. It allays all inflammation immediately. It reduces the infection. Just crush three tablets in 1/2 tumblerful of water, and gargle well. It's a wise plan to take Bayer Aspirin after exposure to bad weather or whenever a cold threatens. If you ever have neuralgia, neuritis, or rheumatism, you should never be without this quick antidote for all such aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless. Outline Objects Of Milk Cooperative To Farmers This Week

13 MEETINGS SCHEDULED IN THIS VICINITY

Gus Sell, County Agent, and State Experts to Deliver Lectures

By W. F. Winsay
At least 1,000 farmers and their wives in this vicinity are expected to attend 13 local meetings this week at which the aims and objects of the Pure Milk Products Cooperative association will be explained. Preliminary steps toward organization of a branch of the cooperative already have been taken at two mass meetings of farmers at the courthouse here, and the next step in the program is to have the county agent and state experts to deliver lectures in the district with the movement.

At the second mass meeting an executive committee was named. This committee, with Gus Sell, county agent, has arranged the series of meetings. Speakers will be Mr. Sell, H. L. Witte, of the state department of agriculture and markets, and R. P. Ames, fieldman for the cooperative. Members of the committee also will attend the local meetings and give short talks.

ACCLAIM BARRERE GREATEST VIRTUOSO

Artist Will Bring Ensemble for Concert at Chapel Tuesday Evening

George Barrere, who will bring his ensemble to Appleton Tuesday evening to present a concert at Lawrence Memorial chapel, has been acclaimed the world's greatest virtuoso.

He was born in Bordeaux, France. When a small child, he was taken to Paris by his parents, where he was educated. At the age of 13 he entered the National Conservatoire, studying first in the flute class of Henry Altes, later under Paul Taffanel. At the age of 19 he was graduated, winning first prize, after years during which he had combined arduous study with positions at the Folies Bergere as first flute and at the Concerts de l'Opera as second flute.

That year he organized the first chamber of ensemble of woodwinds, the Societe Moderna d'Instruments a Vent. Appreciation of its importance, the government subsidized it. A New York syndicate of the French Academy. This organization was the seed of the Little Symphony and of the Ensemble, both of which are famous throughout America today.

After filling various posts in the Colonne orchestra and the Paris opera, and teaching privately and at the Schola Cantorum, in 1905 Georges Barrere was invited by Walter Damrosch to come to the United States to direct the New York symphony orchestra. Barrere accepted practically without interruption until his resignation in 1928, when he devoted all his time to his solo engagements and work as conductor of his Little Symphony and the ensemble which will appear here.

CIRCULATE PAPERS FOR SUPERVISOR RYAN

Nomination papers for P. H. Ryan, 106 E. Franklin-st., for second ward supervisor, have been circulated. Mr. Ryan is the present Sec. of the ward.

In one case, the farmer must accept the price offered as there is no competition among buyers, or keep his products, and in another case he is forced to pay the price asked or leave the goods he wants.

In war time farmers got 18 and 20 cents for live pork, 44 and 45 per hundred pounds for milk and 18 cents per pound for live calves. These high prices fixed the prices for the consumer to pay and, in some cases these latter prices have been rigidly maintained and handed down to the present generation in all their glory. Prices of 18 to 14 cents per quart are reducing local consumption and creating local surpluses of milk. Farmers are now getting about $1.30 per hundred pounds for 3.5 per cent milk.

SHARP CUT IN NAVAL FUNDS MADE IN BILL

Measure Before House Provides Slash of More Than 36 Million

Washington — (AP)—Sharp curtailment of the naval establishment in the next fiscal year became certain today. The house received from its appropriations committee the annual supply bill providing $344,342,000, a cut of $36,310,000 from the current year.

Overriding a request by Secretary Adams for more commissioned officers, the committee recommended a sharp decrease in naval academy classes, with drastic provisions to limit demands of naval aviation on line officers.

If approved by congress, the appointments to Annapolis allotted to each member of congress would be reduced from four, to three with 5,499 retained as the maximum limit of active commissioned officers. Adams had recommended an increase from four to five in appointments and the addition of more than 2,000 officers.

Excepting the second deficiency measure, today's is the last of the big appropriation bills for congressional action at this session. It is $3,451,000 less than the budget estimates.

Economies were effected in reducing ships of the line and their crews. Withdrawal of four battleships, three by London treaty terms, curtailment of enlisted navy personnel from 84,700 to 79,700 and marine corps strength of 15,000 to 17,500, and a smaller outlay for construction of new craft figured in the slash.

As in other years the safety school will be conducted under auspices of Appleton vocational school with the cooperation of industrial plants. A number of executives of the manufacturing firms are expected to attend the meetings.

Mr. Bailey will speak on "Coming Home From Third." He is recognized throughout the United States as one of the most dynamic and enthusiastic of safety speakers. He has been appearing on safety school programs throughout the Fox river valley. In 1929 he was one of the speakers at the local school.

The safety school here will continue until late next spring, and men of national prominence will appear on the programs. Unlike former years, there will be no sectional conferences, according to Henry Heilig, director of the vocational school.

There will be three group meetings held at Conway hotel, and a special class in first aid work for those men responsible for the plant in which they are employed. The class probably will get underway soon.

Safety School Speaker

Above is Elwood T. Bailey, San Diego, Calif., who will be the principal speaker at the first session of the Appleton Safety school this evening at Conway hotel. The topic of Mr. Bailey's address will be "Coming Home From Third." He spoke here at the 1929 safety school.

BAILEY TO SPEAK AT FIRST MEETING OF SAFETY SCHOOL

Expect 500 Industrial Employees to Attend Initial Session

Between 400 and 500 employees of local industrial plants are expected to meet in the Crystal room of Conway hotel at 7:30 Monday evening to hear Elwood T. Bailey, San Diego, Calif., speak at the opening meeting of the 1931 Appleton Safety school.

COLUMBUS PUPILS BACK FROM CHICAGO

Class Takes Part in Experimental Work in Reading Music

Twenty-one pupils of Columbus school, accompanied by their parents, returned Saturday from Chicago where they were taken by O. I. Jacobson, vocal supervisor of public schools, for experimental work at the University of Chicago. The movement of the eyes in the reading of music was photographed in an attempt to determine what type of notes, rhythm, etc., are difficult for children, so that the average stunted lungs in the reading of music may be avoided in the composition of music for school children.

Mr. Jacobson conducted the tests at Chicago as well as the preliminary tests at the school previous to the trip, and selected the subjects. He also wrote the music for the testing at Chicago.

There are only two machines for this type of research work in the country, and Mr. Jacobson is one of 12 persons who know how to operate them.

He had two sieges of infantile paralysis, which later necessitated two operations on his foot, and several years ago he was badly burned about the face and body in a fire at his home.

FREUND GIVEN SENTENCE OF 1 TO 3 YEARS

Gets 1 Year on Each of 2 Other Counts, Sentences to Run Concurrently

Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning sentenced Joseph Freund, town of Grand Chute farmer, to one to three years in state prison for robbery, one year for larceny and one year for concealing stolen property. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Freund immediately made application for a parole, but the judge has not yet announced whether he will grant the request. Sentences were pronounced after Freund's attorney's motions for dismissal, or a new trial were denied by the judge. Oscar J. Schmiede, assistant district attorney declared the state opposed a parole.

The Grand Chute man was found guilty on all three counts several weeks ago by a jury, which deliberated about five hours. Freund's trial attracted hundreds of farmers to the courthouse and the courtroom was jammed to capacity during the three days that testimony was taken.

It was alleged that Freund stole a calf from Emil Smith, a neighbor, last November. Freund was brought into the case when Smith discovered tire tracks outside his barn which corresponded to tracks made by the tires on Freund's car. Armed with a search warrant the authorities searched Freund's home and found the head, legs and carcass of a calf in Freund's basement. These were used by the state as evidence against Freund.

The defense contended that the carcass which the state confiscated was that of a four weeks old bull calf, which Freund of the old bull carcass and which he had butchered the next day. Smith's calf was a heifer about three months old.

The state introduced two veterinarians who claimed that it was impossible to determine the sex or age of the calf whose carcass was displayed in court. This was the carcass seized at Freund's home.

In defense, Freund's attorney offered a witness who claimed he could determine the sex of the calf from the carcass and that it was that of a bull calf. He also claimed the carcass was that of a calf only a few weeks old.

After Freund had been found guilty by a jury, who became interested in the case, sent the carcass to the veterinary control laboratory, a branch of the Wisconsin Live Stock sanitation department, for an expert examination. A report, read in court this morning, of the findings of two experts indicated that from the carcass it was impossible to determine the sex or age of the calf. The report said there was no way of telling whether the animal had been a calf or a bull and that beyond a certain point, the age could not be estimated either.

YOUTHS' EFFORT TO BREAK FROM JAIL THWARTED

Sheriff Takes Saw, File, Soap and Rope Away from Young Prisoners

An attempted jail break by three Appleton youths who are being held at the county jail pending settlement of charges against them in juvenile court, was frustrated late last night by Sheriff John Lappen when he discovered the trio attempting to saw their way out of the second floor jail room. The three youths are George Brando, 16, 502 N. Richmond-st.; Ray Pocan, 17, W. Washington-st.; and Richard Miller, 17, 826 E. John-st.

The attempt to cut through the bars was discovered shortly before midnight by Sheriff Lappen when he heard a noise from the second floor of the jail. Investigating, he caught Brando sawing the bars. One of the bars had been cut about a quarter of the way through. The other two boys were standing nearby. The sheriff searched the youths and took away a saw, a file, two small pieces of soap, and a long rope. The soap was used in an effort to soften the noise of the sawing. The rope was to have been used to reach the ground from the window.

All of the boys claimed they found the articles in jail, but the sheriff is investigating. He believes the articles were brought to the youths by visitors Sunday. Brando was delivered to the custody of the sheriff Saturday to await settlement of a charge against him as the result of his arrest in a stolen car Friday night. The other two boys were arrested in a stolen car at Green Bay last week. When an official there did not prosecute them they were returned to Appleton to await settlement of charges against them here.

Brando was caught by Officer Gus Horskorn Friday night, driving a car owned by John McCann, 321 S. Memorial-dr., which had been stolen a short time before from the Badger rural school on the Spencer-dr.

Miller and Pocan were arrested last week at Green Bay driving a car which had been stolen at Green Bay last week. When an official there did not prosecute them they were returned to Appleton to await settlement of charges against them here.

STATE PROFITS LITTLE IN ONLY U. S. FUND BILL

Item of $6,000 for Forestry Service Is Cut Out by House

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—The only appropriation bill which has become a law in this congested session, except the drought loan bill, provides practically nothing for Wisconsin as a whole, but contains small items of interest to several Wisconsin citizens.

The Senate amended the bill to include an appropriation of $6,000 for the forest service to use to develop a nursery site in northern Wisconsin, but the House of Representatives refused to accept the item and it went.

That left nothing but some appropriations for Wisconsin individuals.

The only one of these of any size is $10,000 for Mrs. Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, widow of the late congressman from the sixth Wisconsin congressional district. It is the custom of Congress to pay $10,000, the amount of a year's salary for a congressman, to the widow or other near relative if the congressman dies while in office.

The other Wisconsin items are to pay small claims against the government, mostly arising out of automobile accidents in which government automobiles are held to blame for injuries to property.

There is to be no federal legislation on chain, branch, and group banking this session. The House of Representatives Committee on Banking and Currency, of which Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac is a member, has voted to recommend that the new Congress continue the investigation of the question begun early in the present Congress, saying that it has not completed its inquiry and has reached no conclusions on the complicated subject.

Hear About Payments
Wisconsin congressmen have heard from the Wisconsin Legislature on the subject of cash payments to veterans for their adjusted service certificates, but actually very little from their constituents.

Sen. Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Madison and Rep. Merlin Hull of Black River Falls placed before Congress the resolution of the legislature memorializing Congress to make the cash payments.

Few letters on the subject are arriving, however, the congressmen say, although most of them are prepared to vote for the proposal. If it reached the floor, for example, Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton has received only three communications, two of them in favor of the cash payments coming from American Legion posts in Green Bay and Pulaski, and one against it from the Appleton post.

Reps. John C. Schafer of Milwaukee, Merlin Hull of Black River Falls, and Hubert H. Peavey of Washburn were among those signing the petition to get the measure out of committee and on the floor for consideration.

Sen. John J. Blaine of Boscobel has introduced a bill providing for the establishment of Fort Howard National Monument at Green Bay. The bill would authorize the appropriation of $250,000 to buy the land and buildings and restore them. The National Park Service, in the Department of the Interior, would administer the proposed national monument.

Buys More Land
Uncle Sam has bought some more forest lands in Wisconsin, the Department of Justice having cleared title to 1,920 acres in Price county, acquired from the Park Falls State Bank for $3,254, and to 560 acres in Oneida county, acquired from the Farm Land and Timber company for $4,005.

President Hoover has reappointed Postmasters Anna J. Johnson at Fairwater and Alice E. Ford at Pelican Lake, and their nominations are now before the Senate for confirmation.

In 1930, when the United States output of merchant vessels doubled, putting this country in second rank, in shipbuilding, 32,675 of the 255,687 tons launched were on the Great Lakes.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. Panneck, D. C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I am a woman forty years of age, and not at all well; operated on twice, experimented with everything with no results and I am discouraged. Do you think there is any help for me under Chiropractic adjustments? Please answer thru your column, Mrs. K. J. S.

ANSWER: Chiropractic proclaims to the world that disease and health are conditions of organs, and that the power which created man, chiropractically termed Innate Intelligence, which is placed within him, will carry him all thru life in normal health, if it can express itself normally from the brain to the tissue cell or organs. It is an established anatomical fact that the brain is the seat of life or great nerve center of the body and that it has a prolongation, the spinal cord which, passes downward thru a canal in the spinal column. This spinal cord also has prolongations called the spinal nerves which pass out thru the intervertebral foramina (small openings) between the bony segments or vertebrae of which the spine is built up.

Chiropractic is the only science that exactly locates the cause of diseases which is pressure on nerves or spinal cord at the spine, by misalignment of vertebrae which interferes with transmission of functions from brain or organs. The true Chiropractor removes the obstructions, thereby allowing Nature's restorative powers to reach the diseased parts. Disease is an evidence of lack of nerve energy, not some diseases but all disease, not traceable to wounds. These broad claims are founded on experience and by years of success, out-reaching every other method.

QUESTION: Can children take adjustments any age without pain? H. J. R.

ANSWER: Yes. Adjustments at the right time will prevent many so-called children's diseases. Our records show that seventy-five per cent of school children are afflicted with some form of spinal curvature or spinal defect, and this is the cause of many grave and dangerous diseases later in life.

D'Annunzio Isolated Behind Walls Of Villa--Speedboat Only Hobby

Gardone Riviera, Italy—(AP)—Im-mured behind the stone walls of his strange Villa Vittoriale on Lake Garda here, Gabriele D'Annunzio, Italy's post-aviator-novelist, permits only his passion for speedboating to draw him out from his almost monastic seclusion.

Day after day the famed 67-year-old author passes in isolation, working at revising his 64 volumes of writings. He writes at night and sleeps through most of the day.

It is only when he descends from the high-perched villa and drives in one of his five automobiles to his private port on the lake that some of the 2,000 inhabitants of this quaint little town get a chance to see him. Then they catch merely a glimpse of the short, completely bald-headed figure of their most prominent citizen as it flashes out from the harbor in a roaring speedboat.

As a resident of Gardone Riviera, "do you often see D'Annunzio?" he replies, "only when he makes a promenade upon the lake." And he adds, "we saw him more last year because he presided at the international motorboat races."

The poet's interest in speedboat racing has led him to champion an international speedboat competition on Lake Garda lasting a week.

Last year D'Annunzio left his extensive hermitage and stood with people of the rest of the world while the races went on. This year he will do the same. He is now composing one of his typical proclamations, addressed to American motorboat enthusiasts inviting them to compete in the contest, starting May 9. D'Annunzio seldom pilots his speedboat. He keeps a pilot always on hand, and his boat tuned up ready for a spin. The craft is an 18-ton Mas (Motoscafo anti Sommergibili) or submarine-chaser, given him by the Italian government, and capable of a speed of 30 miles an hour.

The poet is thus, undoubtedly, the only person in the world who has privately both a water and a land navy—for high up on the grounds of his villa is the complete prov portion of the former cruiser Puglia, which was once an integral part of the Italian navy. There is also a dry-land sailor always on duty to keep the cannon and the brass rails shiny.

The private port of the hero of Fiume is visible to the public only from the water. Like the Villa Vittoriale itself, it is closed to visitors by stone walls. At the water's edge, rises a picturesque stone tower of early Italian style.

D'Annunzio visits his port only occasionally. He spends virtually all his time within his villa, and in fact within his house. He seldom receives visitors. Many of his servants seldom catch sight of him, for he is fast asleep during the day while they are working about the house.

In Gardone Riviera some people say he has become religious, in fact a tertiary of the Order of St. Francis, despite the fact that his books are on the pagan index. More and more he is growing to be a kind of mythical personage.

1,428 FIXTURES ADDED TO PLUMBING SYSTEM

A total of 1,428 fixtures were added to the present city sewer system during 1930, the annual report of George Gauslin, plumbing inspector, shows. Over 600 permits were issued during the year, 1,176 inspections made by Mr. Gauslin.

The largest number of fixtures were added during July, when the number was 154. There were 163 additions in August, 150 in September, 149 in October, 130 in June, 112 in February and May, 109 in April, 99 in November, 86 in March, 72 in January, 62 in December.

PERSHING'S OWN STORY

General John J. Pershing has written a book setting forth his own experiences in the World war. Advance reports indicate that it is one of the most absorbing, thrilling and momentous documents yet written of this great event. Years of patient labor have been spent in its writing and revision. It is a graphic story of American achievement in the war written by the man whose dominant iron will directed our field operations.

The first few chapters of this chronicle, devoted to his efforts to organize the nucleus of the extensive organization to follow, emphasizes, above all things, the woeful condition of unpreparedness in which we found ourselves when war was declared in April, 1917. The threat of war had been hanging over our heads for many months, yet nothing much had been done to prepare us for the cataclysm which suddenly came upon us.

Some of the facts cited by General Pershing to show the state of affairs will cause many Americans to pause with surprise. For example, while on the S. S. Baltic on his way to France in June, 1917, Pershing appointed a board of officers to study artillery needs. Their report based on an army of 500,000 men called for an initial requirement of 2,524 guns, with a possibility of obtaining only 30 of our three-inch guns in September and 40 in October from our own foundries, and with no prospect of further deliveries until June, 1918. The American army therefore had to acquire its artillery and ammunition from France and England, and Pershing makes the significant statement that no guns of American manufacture of the types used, except 24 eight-inch mortars, and 6 fourteen-inch naval guns were ever fired in battle.

Early experience in the war had shown the absolute necessity of a preponderance of artillery of all calibres. When General Pershing visited Sir Douglas Haig on the British front in July, 1917 he found that the British had one gun for every twenty-five yards of front.

The condition of our artillery equipment and possible supply in this country is only a sample of that which existed in other branches of the service. At the time the last shots were fired on November 11, 1918, nineteen months after the declaration of war, practically no artillery of American manufacture was in action. The same applied to airplanes.

The book should be read by every American. The New York Times states that "nothing so clear, so informative, so impressive, has yet appeared in all the wealth of war books thus far published." The book is unquestionably truthful and is a graphic and authoritative chronicle of American participation.

It is not the intention here to enter into any discussion of preparedness. The excerpt given regarding artillery is merely to point out one of many astounding facts disclosed by General Pershing, and the tremendous operations and equipment necessary for the conduct of the war. But it does convince one that this country cannot place much dependence on an army of the type of William J. Bryan's "one million armed springers."

NOT VERY ENCOURAGING

The man who wants to retain an unquestioning and child-like faith in the workings of democracy in the modern state is advised to pay very little attention to the mayoralty campaigns in our two largest cities.

At its last election New York gave a stupendous majority to a young man whose chief qualifications seems to be that he is amiable, dapper, very well dressed and unusually quick at repartee. And now in Chicago we can see a mayor who wants a fourth term seek it, apparently, on the theory that all one needs to do is provide a good show for the populace.

In neither case is the spectacle at all encouraging. New York has its Jimmy Walker; Chicago has its Big Bill Thompson. The believer in democracy can hardly get much nourishment out of either situation.

DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSS

The Distinguished Flying Cross, a decoration authorized by the United States congress, and to be awarded for heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight, seems to have degenerated into the plaything of politicians.

In March, 1927 President Coolidge issued an order specifying those who were eligible for the award of this decoration. It was to be presented only to (1) members of the fighting service, coast guards, and reserve flying corps while in line of duty, and (2) members of foreign fighting force, flying in the service of the United States. All civilians were ineligible.

To date seventy-nine of these decorations have been awarded and a list of some of those who received the award would indicate that its dignity was being jeopardized. Within three months after President Coolidge issued his eligibility rules, Colonel Lindbergh made his flight to Paris. He was given the D. F. C. because of his membership in the Missouri National Guard. Yet the flight was not in line of duty. A few months later it was given to Admiral Byrd and radiomaster Noville for the flight to France, yet Berndt Balchen and Bert Acosta were not rewarded, being considered civilians, though Balchen was a lieutenant in the Norwegian Naval reserve.

Next year Captain Koehl, Major Fitzmaurice, and the civilian Baron von Huenefeld were decorated after their flight from Ireland to Greenly Island. Pinido, Coste, Lebriz were given crosses while Balchen, Acosta, Chamberlain, Brock, Schlee and Kingsford-Smith were just as eligible. But the most absurd bestowal of the cross was to the youthful Captain Benjamin Mendez who was sent by the Columbian government to the United States to learn how to fly. He made a flight to Bogota during which he wrecked two planes and took enough time to go around the world.

The original purpose of the decoration has apparently been disregarded. Its method of award should therefore be changed and the cross presented to all flyers whether military or civilian.

WATER POWER AND COAL

A special committee of the U. S. chamber of commerce recently issued a report on water power development, showing that water and coal are staging a neck-and-neck race to supply the electric power which is revolutionizing industry.

Thus, in 1912, water power produced 6,585,000 kilowatt hours of electricity—37.5 per cent of the total electricity produced in the nation. Last year water power production had risen to 35,000,000 kilowatt hours; but this was only 36 per cent of the total—a slightly lower ratio than in 1912.

This is a striking tribute to engineering genius. More efficient methods of extracting power from coal have been devised; 25 years ago, for instance, it took nearly four times as much coal to produce a kilowatt hour of electricity as it takes today. So it is that despite the increase in water-driven power projects, water and coal today have the same relative positions that they had nearly 20 years ago.

HARRISON'S BIRTH

On Feb. 9, 1773, William Henry Harrison, ninth president of the United States, was born in Virginia, the son of Benjamin Harrison, who signed the Declaration of Independence.

At 18 William joined the army which Wayne was leading against the Indians of the northwest and served for seven years. Three years later he became governor of Indiana territory, and, as its representative in Congress, succeeded in passing a law relating to the sale of federal land in sections or parts of sections. To this act the western states owe much of their prosperity.

In the war against the Indians in 1811, which soon became also a war against the English in Canada, Harrison, as commander-in-chief of the American army, showed great military talent. He defeated the Indians in an important battle at Tippecanoe, and, by the victory of Perry on Lake Erie, was enabled to pursue the British invaders into Canada, where, in 1812, he totally routed them in the Battle of Thames.

In 1816 he was elected to Congress, made a senator in 1825 and elected president in 1840. He died in 1845 after serving but one month.

THERE was a movement on foot to broadcast the courtmartial of General Smedley Butler . . . but the big radio outfit who had the idea was told no . . . maybe it's just as well so few people would be at work during these broadcasts that business, such as it is, would be at a complete standstill. . . and we dunno if the average radio has sufficient strength to stand up under the type of stuff General Butler would produce during his testimony . . . and then we learn that all they did was write the general a letter . . .

They're smart down in Toledo. The county commissioner decided to give all the stray dogs picked up to the Toledo Animal Shelter association instead of to the Humane Society to be quietly snuffed out of existence. The president of the Humane Society said that this action was illegal—that stray dogs must be sold or killed.

Whereupon the commissioner informed the president that the dogs were being sold to the shelter association.

A British M. P. (Member of Parliament) lost his job last week for a fraud of $11.37—and the fraud had nothing to do with the government either, just a matter of some railroad tickets.

What pikers these English are. In this country, an official could rob the people blind, play with the biggest racketeers in the land and go calmly on piling up a fortune . . . and be re-elected. In England, politics are a matter of honor. In America—well . . .

In Chicago, an association of Crime Victims has been formed. As it has been pointed out, a lot more exclusive outfit would be formed from those who haven't been victims of crime. In fact, we doubt if you could get any members together.

Andrew Volstead, who once had something to do with a law, recently underwent an operation for appendicitis. The matter will probably be referred to a senate investigating committee. Something must be wrong somewhere.

Obviously, or they wouldn't have operated.

Might as well mention crime again—someone recently stole a thousand pounds of cloverseed down in Illinois. It'll serve 'em right if there's another drought.

LOSSES

What are losses anyway?
Where's the man can truly say
Loss of money which he had
Is heavenly bad?

It may help him to attain
Infinitely richer gain.
Loss of health is worse by far
Than our money losses are
Loss of honor, loss of will,
Loss of courage, loss of skill,
Loss of friends and loss of wit
Leave a mortal badly hit.

Men who still these joys retain
Place and fortune may regain.
Failure's temporary sting
With it greater joy may bring.
It may rouse a man to find
Hidden powers of heart and mind.
He may win within his breast
Strength of which he'd never guessed
He may gain new splendors, which
He'd have lost by staying rich.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

PLEASE CUT THIS OUT, DON'T BOTHER ME BY ASKING WHAT TO DO ABOUT CRI.

Honestly I do not believe it matters whether you stuff or starve it, whether you drink a glass of water every hour or not at all, or whether you have a little fever or just a mild chilliness. I know that when I have a cold I pay little heed to those conventional rules laid down by the doctors and health authorities. Now, I really like to get lots of letters from readers, and the more varied and difficult the health problems or questions readers submit the better I like it, but candidly I just give me a pain . . . oh-oh, I forgot orders. Well, what I mean to imply as politely as possible is that here is the advice I offer any one who has the cri, and if my treatment does not satisfy you—tell your doctor.

1. Be fair and call it cri (three) and not "cold." Nobody knows what "cold" is. Cri is any of the common respiratory infections—you can be reasonably sure it is some such ailment from the first and you can put the proper label on it later when it develops into plain coryza, measles, meningitis or what have you. Meanwhile your frantically confessing that you believe it is one or another respiratory infection gives your friends and associates a break. If you conceal the infectious character of the trouble under the disarming name "slight cold" you are playing a dirty trick on all who may be compelled to come within your conversational spray range.

2. It is your moral duty if not yet a requirement of law, to keep away from school, church, theater, shop, or public gatherings, to keep away from your friends, if any, and to avoid all public conveyances when you have cri. If justice were done you should be thrown out of such places on your ear if you insist on your "right" to be there in spite of what you consider just a "cold."

3. In your own home you must take particular pains to avoid giving your cri to others in the household. If any one must venture within your conversational spray range (which is up to you to fix) you should don a suitable mask over nose and mouth—a screen to catch the moisture spray.

These precautions all apply with greatest force in the stage of onset or invasion, for it is then that most of the recognized respiratory infections are most communicable. The greatest damage is done in most cases before the disposition of illness develops sufficiently to demand treatment of any kind.

4. Besides immediate and voluntary isolation and the disposal of all secretions or throat secretions as though you knew the illness were diphtheria or scarlet fever or infantile paralysis, it is usually beneficial to have a hot bath, or better, if possible, a hot mustard foot bath in bed, and then remain in bed for the day.

5. It is usually advisable to have a free supply of fresh cool moist air to breathe, and not to breathe overheated and excessively dried-out air. It is a mistake to breathe vitiated or warmed over air merely for the sake of external body warmth. Use hot water bottles and the like for that.

6. If ache and pain or discomfort prevents sleep than one may resort to a dose or two of aspirin; but otherwise it is better to leave all medicine to the judgment of a physician.

7. If you're young take all the cold water or fruit juice beverage you want, sweetened if you like. If you're old better take your liquid hot.

8. If you are at work or play as usual, don't try fasting. If you remain at rest or in bed skip at least a meal or fast for 24 hours, except fruit juice drinks.

9. When hoarseness or cough is a symptom this Food Proof Cough Medicine is at least harmless and, I believe, beneficial in many instances.

10. Steep a heaping teaspoonful of whole flaxseeds in a pint of water for half an hour. Strain and add one ounce of citrate of soda, and one ounce of glycerin, the juice of a lemon and two or three drops of wintergreen or peppermint. Dose, for infant or child a teaspoonful every two hours; for adult a tablespoonful every one or two hours. Some sugar may be added for sweetening if desired.

CATHOLIC HOME EXEMPTION

Editor Post-Crescent: "I saw a statement in the Post-Crescent on Feb. 4 that the Catholic Home at 218 W. Washington-st is ruled exempt from taxation.

I do not think that any clubhouse or home as they call it should be exempt from taxation for they commercialize there. They rent it out, have dances and card parties. It is used the same as all the other club houses of this city. They all do charity work to a certain extent. But I believe that any class of people that can afford to buy a lot and build a building on it should pay taxes. I never thought that a club of members like the Catholic home wants to be would go so far as to refuse to pay taxes on their home.

I for one believe that every piece of property real estate or otherwise should be taxed. I mean everything, but the public buildings including the parochial schools unless they teach from public school books. There is millions of dollars of property in our city that is free from taxation, but a laboring man that lives from hand to mouth is taxed to the fullest and if he cannot pay, why he must lose it. I think that all tax payers should look into this statement and not let our city officials do anything like this. If people do not wish to pay taxes on their property, we are better off if we do not have them. Let them build their building some where else.

I am a tax payer of the Sixth ward.

"The answer's really simple, son," the man replied. "And how it's done is merely with the use of wax. The women have a heap. They spread it on their hair real thick. And that's what makes it look so slick. You'd be surprised if you could know how nice it's bound to keep."

New York—Meeting people: Mme. Maurice Chevalier—her husband's trust fund.

Her name is Yvonne Vallee, of the Bordeaux, not the crooning Vallee. She was dancing partner of Chevalier in Paris, having begun her stage career in Bordeaux at the age of 9. Her English is not as good as his, but her accent is cuter. She is small, slender and chic.

Their best friends in America are Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, who first met the Chevaliers when they were appearing at the Casino de Paris.

Mlle. Vallee's husband now is reputed to be one of the wealthiest theatrical personages in America. Their only home is a villa in Cannes and she would like to have a house over here. Her husband has few close friends in Hollywood and when they're not guests at Pickford, Maurice usually is lounging on the beach in old trousers and a turtleneck sweater.

In New York he usually eats at Dinty Moore's.

Sylvia Sidney, the brunet who'll play a red-head's part.

It was three years ago that I met Miss Sidney, who had just been graduated from the Theater Guild school of acting into Al Wood's "Crime."

All I remember about her was her voluptuous oriental type of beauty; the silk peignoir she wore, the goodluck quarter she exhibited and the worn rabbit's foot she was using to apply her make-up powder. It was the first time I had seen a rabbit's foot put to that use.

Clara Bow, whom Miss Sidney is to replace in a forthcoming film, is a Brooklyn girl; Sylvia was born in the Bronx, Aug. 8, 1910. She speaks fluent Yiddish and has a temper. She is fond of liverwurst sandwiches with onions and usually wears brown or black, but not much of either.

The reporters were all so entertained they forgot to take any of it down. Slender and blond, with blue eyes and a transparent skin, Tallulah is most suggestive in looks of Marlene Dietrich and the late Jeanne Eagels.

OPPOSITION TO EASTERN RAIL MERGER RISES

Counsel to Interstate Commerce Committee of Senate Disapproves

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
1341 Street, New York — (CPA)—
The first definite and detailed opposition to the proposed eastern consolidation under a four-system plan, came Friday in a report from the counsel to the interstate commerce committee of the United States senate which finds little virtue in the merger and disapproves of it at many points.

In contrast is the statement of President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania railroad, who significantly characterizes the consolidation effort as the "first step in the direction of the constructive industrial state ownership."

None of the railroad executives who have had a part in the eastern merger have overlooked the probability of objections to the plan announced by President Hoover last December. They all have realized that they faced months of trial at the hands of congressional committees, state public service commissions, representatives of shippers, of labor, of minority stockholders and that various interests in the so-called "short lines" would undoubtedly ask for an opportunity to be heard.

No Early Decision
Taking into account all of these forms of objections that must be considered before the interstate commerce commission passes judgment on the plan, it is estimated that a decision from the final arbiter in this matter cannot be made at the earliest before the summer of 1932.

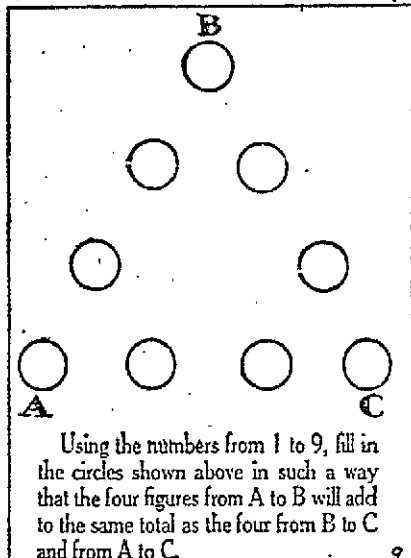

The main arguments of the counsel for the senate interstate commerce committee against the proposed eastern consolidation are that it will not benefit the shippers, that it will not improve the position of the weak lines, that it does not produce the necessary balance required to create the same rate of return on property investment for each of the systems identified with the merger, and that it will bring suffering to the army of railroad workers, inasmuch as the chief economies to be effected by the merger are those from a cutting down of the payroll.

The report to the interstate commerce committee is to a considerable extent a defense of the weak roads. It not only takes into account their status in the eastern territory, but in other parts of the United States. They have always been one of the difficulties in putting into effect consolidation through legislation. The strong roads have not been willing to assume the burden of roads in their territory that were not able to cover their fixed charges by much of a margin and could not contribute income in the way of dividends on stocks.

Includes Weaker Lines
As a matter of fact, however, provision is made in the eastern railroad merger for many so-called weak lines. It has been realized that the weak road is frequently the one that is responsible for rate disturbances and that, in order to correct the situation, these small roads must be included in the larger and stronger families of transportation systems. Had the Great Northern-Northern Pacific consolidation gone into effect, it would have eliminated several of these situations which have been unfavorable to the general railroad position in the northwest.

The report discusses the original intentions of the transportation act, under which the interstate commerce commission should prepare a plan by which all the carriers of the country were to be grouped in a limited number of systems. The answer to this is that the interstate commerce commission did make a tentative recommendation ten years ago and a second one in 1929. No attention was paid to either. The only real progress that has been made in railroad consolidation, is that that has been initiated by the

LIGHT AND POWER OF PENNSYLVANIA BOOSTS EARNINGS

(Editor's Note: This is the thirty-fourth article of a series on the subject of public utilities, covering the principal operating and holding companies, giving their history, field of operations and an analysis of the capital structure. Mr. Hughes will discuss bonds as well as stocks but will present the facts without any attempt to recommend purchase or sale of specific securities.)

New York — Up to and including November, Pennsylvania Power and Light showed larger gross earnings for every month in 1930, as compared with the same month in 1929, except for August and then there was a negligible falling off. In other words, this particular public utility maintained its record for increasing its earnings in a year of exceptional business depression.

The company is controlled by Lehigh Power Securities Corporation, through ownership of all of the common stock and Lehigh Power Securities, in turn, is controlled by National Power and Light. There is, therefore, no public interest in the junior shares of Pennsylvania Power and Light, but the result is interesting because of its bearing on the investment value of the stock of National Power and Light.

Funded debt of Pennsylvania Power and Light consists of four issues of bonds bearing interest rates of from 5 per cent to 7 per cent and secured under the same mortgage. It has been proposed to refund all of these bonds by a new issue, but up to the date of this writing no definite announcement has been made. In any event, a bond of Pennsylvania Power and Light is a high grade investment. In 1929 interest charges were covered more than 23 times over.

There are three issues of preferred stock, all of them of no par value, all of them cumulative, one paying $7, one paying $6 and one paying $5 a year. All of these preferences are callable at 110 at the option of the

236 PEOPLE DROWNED DURING 1930-1931

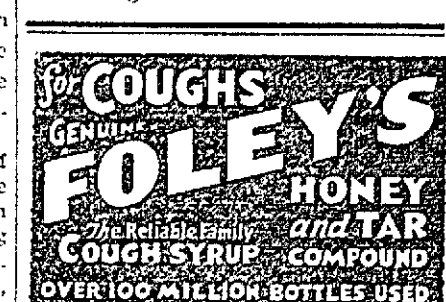

Malden—(AP)—Neither a gain or a loss was made in the state's fight against death from drowning in 1930—the toll of 239 lives being the same as in the previous year, the state board of health announced today.

In 1928 there were 210 victims of drowning. In two years during the past decade, however, deaths from this cause were greater, having reached 268 in 1921 and 267 in 1925.

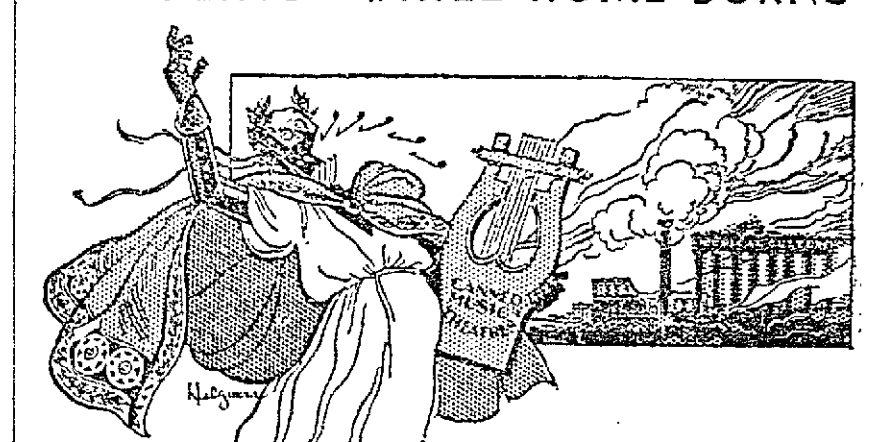

"Venturing on thin ice in winter, swimming beyond the safety zone and reckoning the boat in summer remain among the most persistent evils that public welfare has to combat," the board said.

"The one sure way to cut down the water toll is to instruct the state's children in the simple art of swimming."

Test Eyes Of Children That Fail

BY ANGELO PATRI

When a child fails in school, when the teacher sends home a note saying that "this child is inattentive," that he loses his place in the reading lesson, that for some time now he has been losing ground," make it your first business to have his eyes tested. If the expert, and none of the children, says the child needs glasses, get them and insist that the child wear them according to the physician's directions.

If a child cannot see well he can do nothing else well. His eyes teach his most of what he learns about the world. If they tell him what is not so, he is at a great disadvantage. The worst of this is that he does not know that he cannot see. Often poor vision is painless. The fatigue of the eye results in a headache, in an upset stomach, in a irritable nervous condition and the patient does not trace his trouble to his eyes.

Behavior is based on physical fitness to a great extent. If you have a headache your temper is not what it might be in sweetness. If along with the headache your nerves are twitching, your stomach is scratchy and gnawing, your body clumsy and your movements heavy, you will not be a cheerful willing worker. You will do all sorts of strange things that will make people wonder at you and remember that you once had a grandfather who...

Test the vision of the child who is making life a problem for himself and...

Sometimes the eyes do not need glasses. They need medical treatment and considerate care. No physician will tell a child to wear glasses unless he needs them. What the eye man wants to do is to help the child to see, to conserve his vision, to make him comfortable and give him a chance.

Some children dislike the idea of glasses and fight against wearing them. Insist that he wear them when they are needed. Tell the teacher that he is wearing his glasses and to tell you if he does not do so. Once he has grown accustomed to them, and the longer he wears them at a time the sooner this will be, he forgets that they are there. When he finds that he is more comfortable that he is doing better work, that his glasses help him to do what he wants to be, you will have no trouble with him.

The child who has glasses needs to have them adjusted frequently. A large share of their efficiency depends upon their being in position. If they drop, if they are up on one side and down on the other, they are doing no good. They are likely to do harm. The oculist who makes the glasses is always happy to keep them in good shape. An occasional visit to the shop is all that is necessary—and that is more than necessary. It is essential.

Teach the children whose eyesight is good to care for it. They take it for granted and strain it by reading fine print in a poor light, by reading too much at a time. Eyes need frequent rests, a good light and clear type. They are well worth all the trouble they may cost in care. After all one only gets that one pair. They must last a lifetime. They will if given half a chance.

STATE WATCHES RURAL SCHOOLS IN WISCONSIN

Only Two Other States in Country Have Similar Supervision

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—Out of all the 48 states, only three have state-wide supervision of rural schools with supervisors visiting and assisting in schools in every county of the state, and Wisconsin is one of the three.

Indeed Wisconsin is one of the states referred to repeatedly as a model and example in a new bulletin, "Supervision and Rural School Improvement," just issued by the United States Office of Education at the request of the president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The function of a supervisor is the improvement of instruction. The Wisconsin statutes, quoted in the new bulletin, prescribe the following duties for rural supervisors in the Badger State:

"The supervising teachers, under the direction of the county superintendent, shall assist in organizing and administering the schools of this county; in classifying and grading pupils; in stimulating interest among pupils, teachers, and parents in agriculture and other subjects pertaining to rural conditions; and in consulting and advising with school boards."

"They are expected to report weekly to the county superintendent, visit homes and schools, and attend institutes called by the state superintendent."

Detailed reports listing actual time spent by the supervisors at their various tasks are made by county superintendents to the state superintendent.

Delaware and Maryland. The other two states having supervisors in every county are Delaware and Maryland. Only 30 states have any provision for local supervision of rural schools, and this important work has so far been entirely ignored in 18 states; although it was initiated more than two decades ago.

In Wisconsin in 1930, 109 supervisors were employed. This is the largest number employed in any state. For the country as a whole, 943 supervisors were at work in 1930. These figures do not include supervisors of music and special subjects. In Wisconsin, the number of teachers to each supervisor ranged from a minimum of 34 to a maximum of 267, with a median of 97. The general belief is that the number of teachers per supervisor should be under 50 to be most effective.

Rural school supervision in Wisconsin was originally an outgrowth of administrative problems resulting from the inability of the county superintendents to give proper administrative and instructional supervision to the numerous rural schools in the state. The bulletin says: "In 1915 provision was made for 31 supervising teachers to assist county superintendents."

The present plan was provided at that time by Wisconsin legislature. It authorizes "each county superintendent to appoint one supervising teacher, and if there are more than 125 teachers under the direction of the county superintendent, two supervisors may be appointed. The county is reimbursed by the State for expenditures made for salaries and other expenses of the supervising teachers."

In 1930, the salaries paid rural school supervisors in Wisconsin ranged from $1,200 to $3,500, with an average of $1,500.

None allowed for traveling expenses, which sometimes was based on mileage, sometimes on actual expenses, and sometimes on stated amounts, ranged from $500 to $1,000, with an average of $653.

Must Hold Certificates. Supervisors in the Badger state are required to hold either a first or second grade county certificate, or must be graduates of a county training school for teachers, or of the teachers' training course in high school. In addition, they are required to have had three years successful teaching experience, with one year devoted to rural schools.

A recent survey by the Department of Education revealed a well planned program as guide for the supervisors in more than half of the 71 Wisconsin counties. The program seeks improvement in instruction by research, framing of objectives and planning, executing the plan, and judging the results. A state survey conference called by the Wisconsin state superintendent is held annually.

The U. S. Department of Education's survey particularly stresses the importance of aid to teachers as well as the broadening of the pupils' horizons through contact with energetic and well-trained supervisors.

The bulletin reports an increase of 144 supervisors throughout the country in 1930 and finds this "encouraging, but leaving much to be desired." It adds:

"Supervision in city schools has passed the experimental stage. It is experienced, administered, city school systems, with their closely knit organizations, find supervision a necessary factor. It is certainly more needed in sparsely settled communities where schools of lower standard are to be found."

FLOWER PETALS
MAKE PLEASING
SCENT FOR BATH

BY ALICIA HART
Many an old-fashioned girl remembered for her distinctness made her own fragrant bath lotions from flower petals she gathered from her own garden.

As a matter of fact, if you have a flair for romance and glamour, you can raise a little beauty garden in a corner of that old-fashioned garden of yours this year.

You will need a few of such things as lemon verbena, lavender, roses, heliotrope, sweet Elysium, rosemary, jasmine, pennyroyal. Dry the petals of the flowers and the leaves of the herbs by spreading them out where the sun will reach them, on a clean white paper. You can burn such herbs and dried flowers, right now and blend your own fragrant baths if you want.

Mix any fragrant dried flower petals or leaves with an equal amount of borax and orris root powder. Make up a number of little dainty silk or muslin bags with draw string tops, through which you can run ribbon to facilitate hanging the little bags on the hot water faucet. Put about three tablespoonsful of the mixture in each bag. When you turn on the hot water not only your tub, but the whole atmosphere of the bathroom will be delicately fragrant.

Pearl barley is used with rosemary, borax and powdered bath. For another fragrant bath. You boil this together with three times the amount of barley that you use of the other ingredients, and add the strained mixture to your bath.

Just a lavender bath, using the dried lavender you can get anywhere, is a lovely thing. Use equal parts of lavender and borax and orris root powder, put it all in a small bag and run your hot water through it.

Much simpler, of course, than concocting your own fragrant beauty baths, is the use of commercial powders, salts or tablets. Try different scents and different brands, until you get one you like. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service Inc.)

The superintendent of a rural school near Shawnee, Okla., tunes in desired radio programs for all rooms by a master control system.

The Story of Sue by MARGERY HALE © 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE percolator was still attached on the breakfast table in the cheerful dining room of the Merryman home when Jack came to report his progress with the gas company. Mrs. Merryman brought another gay yellow cup and saucer and poured him some of the aromatic beverage while he talked.

"The gas company didn't send a new man around. And it isn't the right week for reading meters, anyway. We want that bird, but we'll have to locate him and identify him."

Mrs. Merryman's face looked relieved. "Then we've got a clew," he said with a half humorous twist of his lips. "We've got a start. But to find a man on the strength of Mrs. Metcalf's memory isn't going to be easy."

"It's a woman we really want, I think," Jack answered. "A woman who must have a perverted brain. But we'll get our sails set with the wind now. Oh, by the way, I'm not staying at home now. I moved over to the club last night."

"To the club?" Mrs. Merryman's hand trembled a little as she reached out for the percolator. "What happened, Jack?"

"I thought it would be easier to stay there. Dad's married again and I spent enough time at the club to live there. It's much more central." He started to change the subject but Sue interrupted.

"You moved because two legal opponents, even a father and a son, couldn't be harmonious under one roof, even though they are the best of friends in every other way," she said slowly. "And we do appreciate your help, Jack."

Her blue eyes were a little misty, and the rose color deepened in the smooth ovals of her cheeks. She had slipped into a gay smock, splashed with yellow roses, and she looked very young, very trusting, as she leaned toward Jack. Even now the wonder of his love made her catch her breath. She was going to marry Jack, she told herself. It was his diamond that flashed on the third finger of her slim right hand. No matter what life might do, how cruel it might become she had this pledge forever. Forever! But one couldn't say forever about anything, she mused. Change was the only thing in life that was certain. But even that thought didn't disturb her security now and nothing else mattered.

There was a sudden peal of the doorbell and Sue jumped up to answer. Mrs. Metcalf, panting a little, as though she had hurried, came rushing in, slipping out of her shawl as she came.

"Of course this may not help a bit," she said. "But again, it may shed some light. I don't know. I thought I'd better bring it over."

She extended a small slip of paper to Jack.

Out loud he read several addresses. "The one in the center is yours," he said then, looking at Mr. Merryman. "There seems to be two houses on each side of it." He handed it across the table.

"That writing is oddly familiar, although I'm sure I've never seen it," he talked on. "It's queer! And notice the heavy white bonded paper. Not cheap stuff. Is Sybil's card that she put in the flower box, still around?"

NEXT: The writing is compared. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

MY NEIGHBOR Says—

After removing any stains and spots on linen, wash it in warm suds. Do not starch but treat as follows: Hang out very straight on line, with warp threads across line. While still slightly damp take from line, fold carefully and evenly and iron dry. Begin ironing on wrong side, finishing on right. Use only a moderately hot iron.

Do not paint or paper walls immediately after they have been plastered. Let them stand from 8 to 10 weeks and even longer in damp weather, otherwise the job will not prove successful.

When buying sheets, always allow at least 10 inches on each side, and top and bottom, as the bed will never stay neat with sheets that are too short. (Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Newspapers)

WE WOMEN By Virginia Vane

Ted says that he is in love with a quality which he describes as cuteness. He admits that this may not be sound but he says he has been in love with efficiency and virtue before and he's found those qualities unsuccessful. At the moment he's enraptured by a pair of baby blue eyes and a cute line of baby talk and a lot of foolish mannerisms which simply enchant him. He wants to know whether this attraction will last? He thinks perhaps that originality and babyisms can keep a man interested and amused long after efficiency and virtue have begun to pall.

The trouble is, Ted, that cuteness is a delightful thing to have around the house as long as things are pretty rosy. Nothing like a pair of baby blue eyes and a line of pretty baby patter when you're feeling good, and your salary is coming in regularly and there's every prospect of a good year ahead of you. A pretty wife with a lot of cute little tricks can make a man perfectly happy so long as he has nothing real to worry about.

But what about hard times? What about dark days when there are doctors' bills, and troubles at the office, and worries of every kind? Are you going to be enchanted then with those cute baby tricks and that adorable lisp? Are you going to fall back contentedly on the companionship of a wife who is a perfect start at the baby-baby act? Or will it occur to you to long for a good pal, an efficient helper, a woman with enough common-sense to help you through the bad breaks?

All the originality and snappy chatter in the world can't help you when you need real help—not unless behind the periphery there's a fund of common sense, and honest human sympathy.

The point is that what you need is a combination of your cute little girl and your efficient virtuous woman. You seem to have gone in for efficiency and virtue in big doses.

No man is going to be happy with a woman who is just one good quality after another and no nonsense. But neither can he live happily ever after with nonsense and nothing else.

You state at one point in your letter that people have a habit of remarking: "Isn't it strange what that man sees in that girl to love?" And you argue that this proves the man is really in love, because his devotion is so great that he overlooks all her shortcomings. From this premise you argue that your love for the baby-talk lady is sure fire, since you can overlook her faults, and see only the beauty of her wide blue eyes.

Actually though the unseeing, unthinking type of love is usually a mere infatuation. It can't last long. There's got to be something in the line of real companionship behind all the pretty love talk or there won't be anything to keep two people together through all the troubles that come to any married couple.

It's very unwise to overlook physical attraction. If you happen to be the sort of man who is always going to fall for ingenuite stuff, for goodness' sake pick out the ingenuite type and stick to her, but make sure that she has something more to offer than her little girl number. Because that won't make you happy permanently.

GEORGE: You've let yourself get into a rut, and it's not too late to get out, even though the wrench of parting may be painful. Since neither you nor she are really in love, what perfect nonsense it would be for you to marry, just because the world has been waiting rather a long time for the sound of wedding bells. Just have the courage to break things off now. In her heart of hearts, the girl in the case will be relieved—far more relieved than you think, since she can't possibly want to marry a man whom she doesn't love and who doesn't love her.

You can probably be good friends with her just as before. Indeed the friendship may flourish now that you are no longer tied to each other by a bond of which you've both grown weary.

Leo Rabideau, Kaukauna, Wins Senior Men's Skate Title

MARY EGGERT FIRST AMONG JUNIOR GIRLS

Large Crowd Watches Ninth Annual Tourney; Clowns Also Entertain

LEO Rabideau, a 17 year old Kaukauna youth, yesterday won the senior men's skating championship at the ninth annual Post-Crescent tournament, and joins the Post-Crescent champions for future events. Rabideau first competed here last year when he won a first and second as an intermediate boy, a fall in one of the races causing him to take the second place.

The new member of the Post-Crescent champions had little trouble winning the various events. He finished in front in the 220 yard dash, in the 440 and then galloped to an easy win in the mile. In the latter event he slipped on one of the turns 60 yards from the finish but was back on his feet immediately and crossed the line far ahead of his nearest competitor.

Orville Wonsler, Appleton, and Frederick Ludtke, Kaukauna, staged battles for honors in the junior boys races, Wonsler winning the 440 when Ludtke fell. The two boys finished the 220 finals in a dead heat and both will be awarded medals.

A new skating star flashed on the horizon in the junior girls' races when Mary Eggert, a mite of a miss, won the 220 yard dash by a big margin and then skated to an easy win in the 440 when she was the only girl to survive. The little miss made a big hit with the spectators and she had all of them pulling for her in the two races.

Intermediate boy honors were divided yesterday, John Glasheen winning the 440 yard dash and Jerry Hecker the 880. Both boys had plenty of competition in their respective races and were forced to the limit to win. Hecker also topped in the 440 yard dash and his total points forced him into the senior men's class, nearly year even though his age may permit him to race as an intermediate boy.

Senior girls' honors also were divided. In the 220 yard dash Miss Irma Kizer came in ahead when she was the only one to survive the jaunt around the circle. In the half mile event in the same class Miss Ruth Schwanke won easily with Miss Kizer second. Miss Schwanke fell during the short dash and failed to finish.

In the Post-Crescent championship class, Miss Bluebell Ryan won a medal and cup for the half mile race without competing. No one challenged her and she was awarded the trophies on default. The same situation existed in the Post-Crescent men's champion class. Here Art Roemer won three medals and a cup for appearing on the ice. He also was unchallenged.

The third cup offered went to Leo Rabideau for his work in the senior men's races.

An added feature to yesterday's program was two clowns, George Hanrahan and Bill Engebretsen of Green Bay, and their brightly decorated "donkey." When the boys arrived on the ice and started through their repertoire of tricks they almost stole the show.

Tumbling stunts that would have done credit to professionals anywhere featured the act. Numerous clever clowning antics attracted the youngsters and the boys were forced to perform for a half hour after the races were over.

Winners of the various events follow:

Junior boys, 220 yard dash—Orville Wonsler, Frederick Ludtke, tied for first; Milan Bauer, second. Time: 25.5 seconds.

Junior boys, 440 yard dash—Orville Wonsler, first; Frederick Ludtke, second; Milan Bauer, third. Time: 53 seconds.

Intermediate boys, 440 yard dash—John Glasheen, first; Jerry Hecker, second; Orville Kositzke, third. Time: 25.25 seconds.

Senior men, 220 yard dash—Leo Rabideau, first; Manfred Helms, second; Harold Schroeder, third. Time: 23.5 seconds.

Senior men, 440 yard dash—Leo Rabideau, first; Manfred Helms, second; Roland Wolgram, third. Time: 51.25 seconds.

Senior men, mile race—Leo Rabideau, first; Robert Schultz, second; Henry Hansen, third. Time: 3 minutes 55 seconds.

Junior girls, 220 yard dash—Mary Eggert, first; Dolores Lutz, second; Mamie Chalk, third. Time: 35 seconds.

Junior girls, 440 yard dash—Mary Eggert.

Senior girls, 220 yard dash—Irma Kizer, first; Evelyn Ingethron, second; Esther Krause, third. Time: 32 seconds.

Senior girls, 880 yard dash—Ruth Schwanke, first; Irma Kizer, second. Time: 2 minutes, 21 seconds.

Girls' championship race—Bluebell Ryan, no opposition.

Post-Crescent mens' champion—Art Roemer, no competition.

PLAN 16 TEAM LOOP FOR PRO BASKETEERS

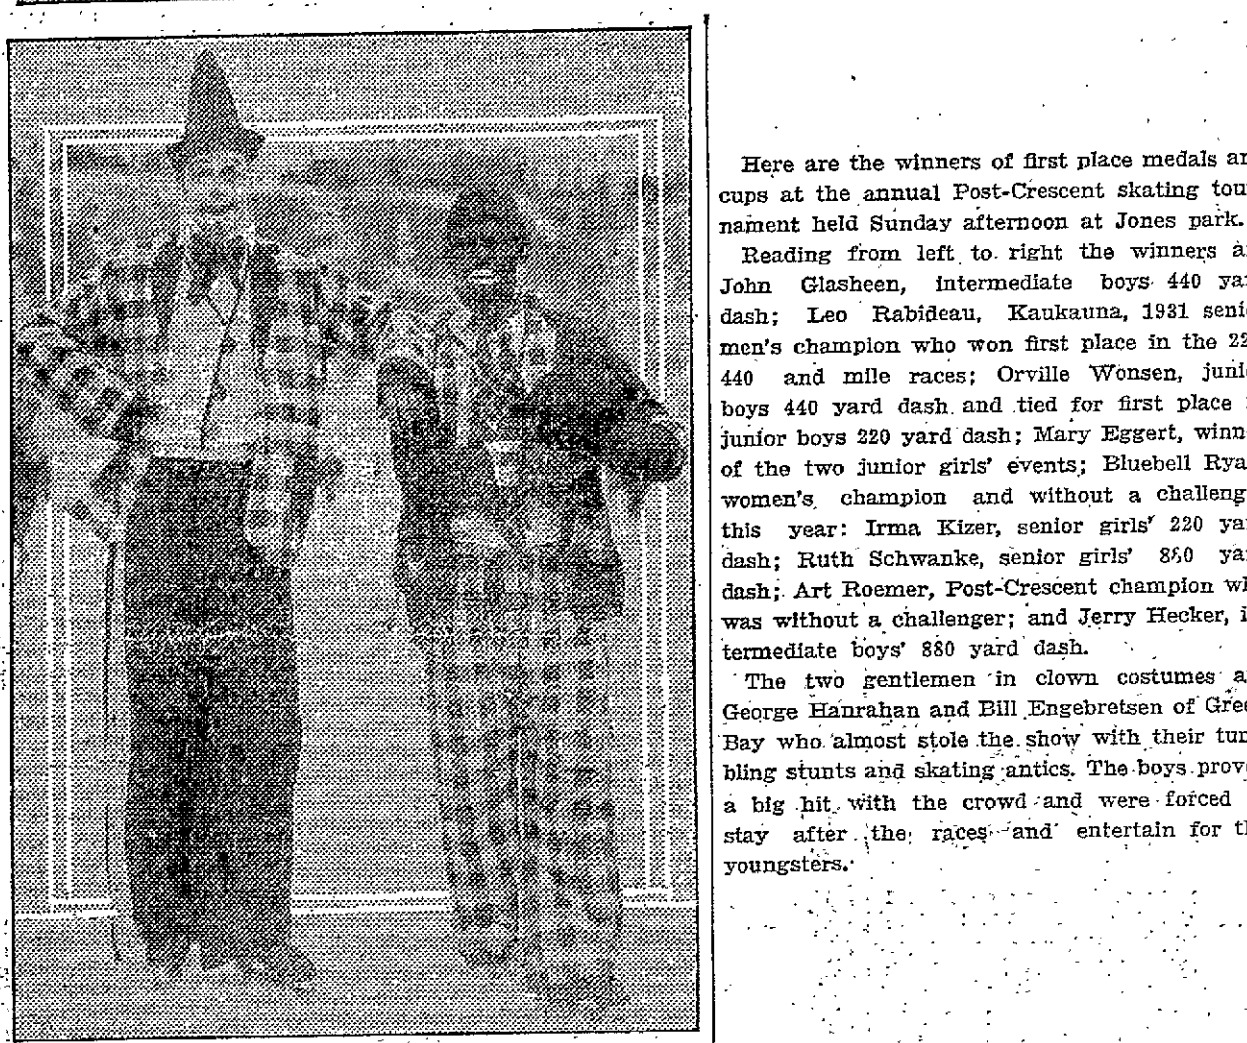

Chicago—(P)—The American professional basketball league will be expanded into a 16 club organization for the 1931-32 season, with eight clubs in the west and eight in the east. George Halas, operator of the Chicago Bruins, said today.

The eight teams will represent two separate leagues, with a championship series between the titlholders at the end of the season.

According to Halas, the Western section of the league will be composed of Cleveland, Detroit, Toledo, Ft. Wayne, Dayton, Milwaukee and two teams from Chicago.

The league this year dwindled to five teams, two from the east and three from the west.

Winners of Honors at Annual Skate Tourney

Here are the winners of first place medals and cups at the annual Post-Crescent skating tournament held Sunday afternoon at Jones park.

Reading from left to right the winners are John Glasheen, intermediate boys 440 yard dash; Leo Rabideau, Kaukauna, 1931 senior men's champion who won first place in the 220, 440 and mile races; Orville Wonsler, junior boys 440 yard dash and tied for first place in junior boys 220 yard dash; Mary Eggert, winner of the two junior girls' events; Bluebell Ryan, women's champion and without a challenger this year; Irma Kizer, senior girls' 220 yard dash; Ruth Schwanke, senior girls' 880 yard dash; Art Roemer, Post-Crescent champion who was without a challenger; and Jerry Hecker, intermediate boys' 880 yard dash.

The two gentlemen in clown costumes are George Hanrahan and Bill Engebretsen of Green Bay who almost stole the show with their tumbling stunts and skating antics. The boys proved a big hit with the crowd and were forced to stay after the races and entertain for the youngsters.

Blue Streaks, Wausau Play Tie Hockey Game

APPLETON Blue Streak hockey team, winner of the Fox river valley championship, and contenders for state honors at the state amateur meet at Fort Atkinson next week, played a tie game with Wausau, 1930 champions, last night on the Wausau rink.

The game was reported to be a thriller with a large crowd watching the Blue Streaks perform in the best manner this year. The regulation period ended with the score three all and after battling a ten minute overtime the teams called quits with the count still at 3 all.

Play in the first period was even, neither team scoring as each felt out the other's strength. In the second period Wausau tallied twice and Fred Campbell crashed the rubber into the net once for Appleton.

Play waxed furious during the third and last period, Joe Shields dashing off with the honors when he chased the rubber into the net twice during the 15 minutes. Wausau also scored during this stanza and the regulation period ended with the score tied.

A ten minute overtime session was agreed on, the teams playing each way for five minutes. When the period ended with neither team in front the boys decided to call quits because it was getting late. The game started at 8 o'clock.

Thursday night the Streaks will leave for Fort Atkinson for the state tournament. Their showing at Wausau ranks them among the favorites and it would not be out of the ordinary to see the boys meet Wausau for the state crown.

Among the men who participated in the Wausau game and who are booked to take the jaunt to the Fort are Joe Shields, Eddie Helms, Duckie Schultz, Carl Newland, Fred Campbell, Killy Kitzinger, Percy Sharpe, Chet Davis, Bill Kiley, Frankie Bush, Francis Rooney and Manager John Roach.

BADGER CAGERS MEET WASHINGTON U. QUINT

Chicago—(P)—Minnesota, the surprise team of the Western conference basketball season, will make its supreme bid to remain in the championship race, tonight against Northwestern's undefeated five at Evanston.

The Gophers will take a record of four victories and one defeat into battle against the Wildcats, their lone defeat having been accomplished by Chicago. Northwestern has overcome Michigan twice, and Illinois, Ohio State and Chicago once.

Minnesota has beaten Iowa twice, and Wisconsin and Chicago, once. Action will break out all along the line this week, except for Michigan and Ohio State. Along with the Minnesota-Northwestern encounter tonight, Iowa will play at Indiana, and Wisconsin will entertain a non-conference opponent, Washington University of St. Louis, at Madison.

YANKS LOSE QUEST FOR AMATEUR HOCKEY TITLE

Krynica, Poland—(P)—The world's international amateur hockey championship was in Canada's possession today through the exploits of the University of Manitoba grads.

In a fast and furious final round battle, Manitoba conquered the American representative, the Boston hockey club, two goals to none here yesterday. Watson scored the first Canadian goal in the first period and Morris the second in the third period.

The United States finished second; Austria third; Poland fourth, Czechoslovakia fifth, and Sweden sixth.

Auckland, New Zealand—George Simpson breaks New Zealand record for 220 yards and equals mark for 100 yards; Robert establishes new national shot put record.

SIX CITIES WOULD ENTER SOFTBALL LOOP

Six Fox river valley cities have agreed to enter softball teams in a valley league, according to statements of representatives at a meeting held last week in Appleton. Entries are expected from Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kaukauna, and New London.

Rules and regulations under which the league will operate also were approved at last week's meeting and plans made for another meeting March 27 when details will be completed and league officers for the year elected.

LEN HARVEY AGAIN MATCHED WITH DUNDEE

New York—(P)—Len Harvey, British middleweight, champion, had Vince Dundee of Baltimore on the floor twice in their first meeting. He hopes to be able to keep him there long enough for a ten-count when they meet in a return 12-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Harvey, that rare bird, a British puncher, caught Dundee napping and sent him to the canvas twice when they met here a few weeks ago. Much to Harvey's astonishment possibly, Dundee got up and made himself so generally obnoxious the rest of the way that he galloped off with the decision.

With a few more weeks in which to get himself accustomed to his new surroundings, Harvey may reverse the verdict. The betting odds favor him by a slight margin.

KIMBERLY HIGHS BEAT SEYMOUR

Villagers Knock Off League Leaders Second Time in Week, 19 to 17

Kimberly—Playing the best brand of basketball they have played this season Kimberly high cagers took the second straight game from the loop leading Seymour team at Seymour last Friday evening before the biggest crowd of rooters ever to witness an inter-high school game in that city. The score was 19 to 17.

The win for the Kimberly lads put them on an even basis with the Seymour squad. Seymour has lost only two games and both of the defeats were administered by the Kimberly squad. The two games to teams in the lower department namely Pulaski and Hortonville. Coach Harper and his cagers have one more conference game to play and Seymour has a home and home schedule with Hortonville.

It was a great evening for the Red and White cagers. They outplayed the Seymour aggregation in every department and the defense worked perfect. The Seymour quintet was held to only three field goals which Kimberly collected seven goals for their efforts. The Seymour team seemed to be dead on free throws and gained 11 points in the running at all times and the game was a nip and tuck affair until the very last moment. All of the Kimberly lads took part in the scoring but captain Buck LeMay led the field with three field goals all of which were the one hand variety.

Bouressa, who played bang up ball at guard where his six feet and long arms make him a valuable man, tallied twice one shot being a follow up and the other a long shot from mid floor. With Schwanke and Bouressa at the guard positions, Coach Harper has a defense that is impregnable.

In a preliminary game the Seymour "B" team evened up a defeat that was handed it by the Kimberly "A" team last week and romped off with a 32 to 11 win.

SEEK OPPONENT FOR TOMMY LOUGHRAN

Chicago—(P)—Wanted: an opponent for Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, former world light-heavyweight champion. Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago stadium, signed Loughran today for a bout Feb. 20, but when it came to locating a warrior to oppose him, he was shunned by all approached.

Tuffy Griffin refused, the assistant, contending he has a match with Jack Sharkey in prospect. Charlie Retzlaff, the Duluth, Minn., knockerout, also balked, claiming he damaged his hands in polishing off Johnny Risko in Detroit last Friday night. Now matchmaker Lewis is seeking volunteers.

Gehrig And Bill Terry Seeking Bigger Salaries

BY JOHN B. FOSTER Copyright, 1931

NEW YORK (CPA)—Memphis Bill Terry and Larruping Lou Gehrig, two of the heaviest hitters in the National and American leagues and each the star first sacker for his New York club, may be engaged in salary battles with their managements but there is no great probability that either player will be unable to come to terms with his team.

Memphis Bill appears to be more perturbed at what he thinks is lack of recognition of his services than Larruping Lou. Gehrig, however, wants to get all that he can while his batting is good and possibly believes that he will be the leading batter of his club in the coming season, whether he wins the batting championship of the league or loses it. In 1930 he was in a hair's breadth of winning the circuit title.

When Terry won the championship of the National in 1920 he also won a salary fight with his club. For some reason it was expected that he would not come to terms with the Giants in a hurry. Perhaps that is due to the fact that he has had salary disagreements with the organization. In one season he went to San Antonio, where his team was training, before he signed his contract. He is not the first player who has done that when with the Giants. It has not always been easy to reconcile differences on the New York National league team. Possibly playing baseball in the "Big City" enlarges the financial vision of the ballplayer. At any rate when a player wins a batting championship it is the first step toward asking an increase in pay the next year.

When Terry first joined the Giants his playing did not always meet the expectations of his manager. He has improved though in the last two years. His work in 1929 was the best that he had done to that date and in 1930 he surpassed all that he had ever done on a ball field. It is said that the advance which was granted to him was not to his liking because it was far too small.

The situation in New York is very interesting. Both teams have very good first basemen. They are, not personally jealous of one another but their partisan friends are. The fans who think Gehrig to be the greatest first baseman in the United States make their claims in vigorous language and those who believe the honor belongs to Terry, are as vigorous in their contentions.

The Gehrig faction wants him to receive fully as much salary as Terry and the Terry faction is working its mental powers to get as much for their man as Gehrig receives. The fans are having a lot more fun out of it than the owners of the clubs who realize that they will have to pay both players handsomely.

The new baseball adopted by the National league to curb long distance hitting will be used by the Fox River Valley baseball league as it swings into action this season. At the annual organization meeting yesterday, the league decided in favor of the new ball. C. O. Baetz, Appleton, president; John Coppes, Kaukauna, treasurer, and G. W. Calhoun, Green Bay, secretary, were reelected for their fourth year.

The franchises of the Neenah-Menasha club was turned back to the league. Several applications from other cities were heard. Hold-over clubs represented at the meeting were: Green Bay, Kimberly-Litell-Chute, Wisconsin Rapids, Appleton and Kaukauna.

After the rest period the Bankers strengthened their defense and held the Guards to a mere five points. The defensive efforts failed to keep them from garnering a few tallies and two goals and a free throw by Reuben Schultz and goals by McKenzie, Versteegen and Voelckers saw the Bankers pull out in front and win easily.

Six points was all the United Cigars could count against the Bankers in the first half their battle and that probably accounts for the defeat for the Kloehe's counted 15 markers in the same period. In the second half the Cigars came to life and Bowly, Koll, Reetz and Johnson each scored two goals. The Kloehe's were not to be denied a victory, however and they paced the Cigars point for point and won on the strength of their first half showing.

After the rest period the Bankers strengthened their defense and held the Guards to a mere five points. The defensive efforts failed to keep them from garnering a few tallies and two goals and a free throw by Reuben Schultz and goals by McKenzie, Versteegen and Voelckers saw the Bankers pull out in front and win easily.

Six points was all the United Cigars could count against the Bankers in the first half their battle and that probably accounts for the defeat for the Kloehe's counted 15 markers in the same period.

In the second half the Cigars came to life and Bowly, Koll, Reetz and Johnson each scored two goals. The Kloehe's were not to be denied a victory, however and they paced the Cigars point for point and won on the strength of their first half showing.

VIKINGS WIN OVER KNOX IN THRILLER, 21-20

Two Game Trip into Illinois Gives Lawrence Five Even Break

BY JACK WILLIEM

THE fickle gods who watch over basketball teams were tickled into smiling upon Lawrence's cage representatives during the last four minutes of a regulation game at Galesburg, Ill., Saturday night, the Vikes tumbled off the train Sunday night with an even break on a two game invasion of the Sucker state and a tie for second place in the Midwest conference. The victims of the whims and fancies of the gods were the Knox college five, who lost their third consecutive battle by the margin of a single point as they watched A. C. Denney and company carry off a 21 to 20 decision.

Losers to Cornell a week ago 27 to 26 in an evening battle, defeated by Monmouth 21 to 20 in an overtime period earlier in the week, Knox fought with all the strength of a powerful vixen fighting against fate, only to succumb again by that single point margin.

BIGGERS IS OUSTED

Saturday night's battle was a dime novel thriller in every sense of the word. Four minutes to go, Lawrence leading 20 to 18, Biggers fouled Lomax while in the act of shooting. The sub Knox guard promptly converted twice and the score was knotted as Biggers left the floor with his quota of personal fouls. A second or two later Rafto was fouled on the floor and he gave Lawrence the lead and the game by sending his toss through the net.

Knox tried desperately to convert the miscues of a frenzied Lawrence stalling game and rained shots steadily at the Viking hoop. With a minute to go Lomax drove in for a perfect setup which rolled off the rim, and a last vain toss by Weelmann fell short as the gun sounded.

The southerners, like their Monmouth neighbors, had an offense which revolved around the center who the guards, the front line never a potential scoring threat.

Kenny Laird had a little duel all his own with Strawbridge, the Knox center who plays a game similar to Vander Muehlen of Carroll. In the second half Strawbridge kept giving his team a slight margin with crazy tosses from all angles, but Laird, not to be outdone, retaliated with three tosses equally as crazy to bring back the lead.

Haase Shows Well

The feature of the two game trip was the play of Willis Haase, the former Neenah star, who made his varsity debut with four goals and three gift shots against Monmouth Friday night, and counted four times from the free throw line against Knox. The youngster, new to the forward post, gave an excellent account of himself and will probably displace Hall as regular forward.

Art Denney's plays were working perfectly against Knox, but that same dexterity which has hovered over the Lawrence basket in past contests refused to let Vixen shots drop. Consistently the forward line opened up the Knox defense for easy shots, but the ball refused to fall.

With Biggers and Haase setting the pace, the Vikes ran up a 7 to 2 lead in the opening half, but Knox rallied until Veepley lost a foul, the southerners led for the first three goals to send Lawrence back into a 10 to 9 lead as the half ended.

At the start of the second half the game took on the aspect of a seesaw contest which led up to a hair-raising finish. Lomax made the count 11 to 10 and Strawbridge added a free throw. Biggers tied it up with a pair of gift tosses, but Strawbridge took a crazy one for a 14 to 12 margin. Laird evened matters on a dizzy poke and Fischer gave the Vikes a 15 to 14 margin. Strawbridge and Laird exchanged one-handed tosses and Haase's free throw and Pierce's basket gave Lawrence a 20 to 16 lead. Kemp and Lomax combined to even the count as Biggers left the floor on fouls, and then Rafto, cording in Biggers' post, sank the winning free throw.

For the remaining three and a half minutes Knox tripped vainly to score as the Vikes jumped about in a minor form of stalling until the game ended.

Milwaukee—(P)—The Koster Eagle five of Milwaukee, with 2,971 pins, last night went into a tie with the Schroeder Hotel team of Milwaukee for the lead of the state bowling tournament. Their rolling marked one of the two changes in the standings to be recorded over the weekend.

Saturday, J. Herrman, Kenosha, rolled games of 192, 241 and 258 for a total of 691, good for second place in the singles.

On Sunday's early schedule, Hoppies Weiners of Appleton took 2,787 to lead the teams on the squad, but the mark was no where near top position.

BADGER CAGERS WON'T HAVE NEW CAPTAIN

MADISON—(P)—Wisconsin's basketball team, which started the season with two captains and proceeded to slide down to a tie for fifth place in the Big Ten, now has no captains and will have none during the rest of the campaign.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, Wisconsin's coach, decided that captains hadn't helped much so far and that he would do without one.

Fall Of Football Would Be National Calamity

BY LAWRENCE PERRY

COPYRIGHT 1931
NEW YORK—A close follower of intercollegiate football—he has an official position in the great autumn game—predicted to the writer recently that football receipts next fall throughout the country will show a marked decline. This, he says, will be due to public reaction to the attacks on the game by educational authorities.

He pointed out that whenever a reform of whatever sort starts in this country, the public rises to it like a cumulative wave and with the complete lack of intelligence observed by a wall of water in its onward course.

In the case of football he believes that things that have already happened and that will happen in the near future will exert a depressing effect upon public interest in the game and that the reaction will be revealed at the turnstiles.

Not Making Money
With a great university such as Pennsylvania leaning far backward in dealing with football over-emphasis, with the game under fire in various directions, there are certain facts that should be borne in mind at this time. First of all, according to the findings of the eminent football statistician, Parke H. Davis, of nearly six hundred colleges throughout the country that go in for football the athletic treasures of 530 of them are empty. So if football is over-emphasized, the exaggerated importance cannot be especially comprehensive.

Secondly, of all the influences with which American youth is brought into contact, football from a moral standpoint is one of the most formative. This applies to those who play the game and to student bodies as a whole. The typical football player, in whatever part of the country he may be found is a clean, upstanding, courageous, modest, self-sacrificing boy. Hours which he might have spent loafing on street corners, or spending out for his animal energy, in unwholesome and malicious activities are spent in the game and take of rugged competition, and they are exemplars to the entire student body. Go to a university where football is played up to the hilt, mark the spirit, the morale of the undergraduates generally, their high-headed stance, their pride in their university; then visit an institution where football is not emphasized, or where it is conducted in slipshod manner with a cheap coach and poor material. The difference in the very atmosphere of the two seats of learning is so great as to be amazing.

Call to Manhood
The vicious student riot at Princeton last fall, following a football meeting does anyone suppose that the uprising would have occurred had the Tigers been playing half way decent football up to that time? When that team rose in its might, coarsened and turned in against Yale, as well-played and as thrilling a football game as the season of 1930 saw, the changes in the impression of the Princeton campus was literally miraculous. A new spirit was born and it is there now.

Football is a call to manhood and all that is fine and clean and brave in manhood. If anything occurs to diminish its legitimate influence it will be a national calamity, and those who are working to this end are traitors to youth. Football, of course needs supervision by those who are concerned with the direction of youth, like anything else of importance, evils creep in. But should remedies be applied with broad-brimmed fanatics, or by those whose dry souls have never thrilled to brave action, or who think of youth in terms of nothing but book-fodder?

In the general drabness of American life, football supplies color, pagantry and chivalry. It is one of the fine things about American life; it is constructive in many ways; it makes young men brave and old men young and we need it as much as we need books.

Polish Atrocities Against Ukrainians Reported to Be on Increase

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—People with an appetite for atrocity stories can always get them from some part of the world and now they are getting them from Poland. The reports come from what seem to be reliable authorities and are completely denied by Dictator Joseph Pilsudski's representative here, Polish Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz.

One trouble with atrocity stories is that, much as everyone likes to believe them, they are likely to be exaggerated.

The other trouble is that they are always officially denied, in toto, whether true, false or only partly true. If Mr. Filipowicz, for instance, were to admit that there had been any Polish atrocities against the Ukrainians in eastern Galicia, as is being widely charged, he presumably would be recalled to Warsaw, fired and incarcerated in Marshal Pilsudski's great big house at Brest Litovsk.

Urges Investigation
The Ukrainian members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom recently asked their international office to send a commission of inquiry into Galicia to investigate the alleged atrocities against the Ukrainian minority.

Mary Sheepshanks, the international secretary, and Frau Oppenheim of Austria made the investigation and turned in a report which appears to reveal the most widespread campaign of atrocity perpetrated in many years. This began in October and continued up to the elections on Nov. 15. It was at about the same time that Pilsudski was throwing some of his most important political enemies into jail.

The women found populations terrorized and peasants and workmen still suffering from frightful beatings inflicted two months previously, but they were able to find witnesses who dared talk. By government command, they report, somewhere between 500 and 800 villages were raided by cavalry and police. Hundreds, and "perhaps several thousand," were brutally flogged.

The general plan of attack was similar, they declare: Soldiers levied contributions from households, others forced villagers to wreck their community enterprises with bare hands and still other detachments rounded up the leading men of the village, stripped them and beat them with flails. When men became unconscious cold water was poured upon them and the beating was resumed, often with 200 or 300 blows per man so that the flesh was "horribly torn."

Boys and old men were beaten and their bones broken, according to Miss Sheepshanks and Frau Oppenheim. Bleeding and fainting victims were sometimes thrown into cellars and left for 24 hours without medical attention or water. Refusal of medical treatment "was one terrible feature of the whole procedure." Many cases of death and lifelong injury from gangrene were alleged to have resulted.

Priests and school masters were usually among the victims in each town and in addition to the customary treatment as described, "numerous cases of excess" of all kinds of cruelty are reported. Several doctors found dressing wounds were impudently refused. Women sometimes were forced to shout "Vive Pilsudski!" The Women's League has a long list of names, dates and places to back up the story. It also has a report on mistreatment of political prisoners under the Pilsudski regime.

Denies Charge
But Ambassador Filipowicz says that the 5,000,000 Ukrainians in eastern Galicia are really very happy, enjoying the benefits of the Polish system of local self-government and

The Polish policy of treating racial minorities liberally. "The recent unrest" he attributes to a "terrorist organization directed and financed from abroad." He says there were nearly 150 incendiary attempts in southeastern Poland early in the fall and that the trouble became too large for local police to handle. The Polish government took only such measures as any civilized government would have taken, the ambassador says.

The investigators for the Women's International League say the events leading up to the drastic measures of repression were some lack burnings attributed by Ukrainians "to school boys going through the country on bicycles."

Confidential reports to the government here have indicated that there were plenty of floggings. But no one seems to be sure how many, and the Polish government won't tell.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

Bill had always meant to specialize, she said, but his father had died, leaving debts to pay off, and Bill had to get through quickly and come home. A good deal that Audrey did not say implied Bill's disappointment, for instance.

Is Bill Netherthor particularly friendly with Marjorie Blake?

"With Marjorie?" There was obvious surprise in her tone. "I do not think so. Why do you ask?"

"I only wondered," he evaded. The subject was dropped as they watched a one-armed golfer take an iron and with his left hand send the ball down the fairway.

Audrey answered Jimmie's question. "He's Captain Stirling. Lost his hand in the war—bombed. He's coming over here to speak to us."

"Captain Stirling?" Jimmie repeated. "You rarely see a one-armed golfer. Can he drive a car?"

"Rather. Not much he can't do." Stirling, a big, dark fellow with a close-clipped black moustache and square, light shoulders went over to Nancy, telling her that Evelyn Blake had asked her, Donald and Jimmie to come over for a quiet time that evening. It was agreed that the three would go over.

Jimmie and Audrey should have won the game, which ended all square. She played well, but Jimmie's interest in meeting Captain Stirling had put him off his game. Had the one-armed man played any part in the tragedy? Obviously he was friendly to the sisters. Was it his car that the chauffeur had seen against the fence? The fact that Dr. Netherthor had seen him driving in that direction supported the possibility. That a powerful one-armed man could have pushed over the satyr was obvious, but to conclude that from the mere presence of his car appeared worse than accusing Joe Allen because of his disappearance.

Jimmie and the Wades reached the Querdling place after dinner. Duckworth and Evelyn seemed content together. Marjorie had a book in her hand but was not reading, while Stirling was trying to make conversation. They all brightened up when the newcomers arrived.

Evelyn's remark to Jimmie gave a lead in the direction of their thoughts. "We can't believe what they are saying about Joe Allen. If he's innocent, when do you think the detectives from Scotland Yard will come?"

"Probably not at all," he replied, adding that Scotland Yard helps in provincial cases only when asked. "The local police are very efficient."

"Especially with the aid of a gifted amateur." Stirling's tone was not entirely free from sarcasm, but Jimmie took it good-humoredly. "Wrong again," he replied. "The amateur is seldom of much use in comparison with the trained policeman."

"Well then I hope that Richmond will soon end the suspense," observed Duckworth.

"But," said Stirling, facing Jimmie, "whoever is guilty, how is it to be brought to them. If they deny it and there are no eye-witnesses?"

"All you can do is to get a combination of circumstances and eliminate reasonable doubt. Take Joe Allen. We'll check up on every detail of his story and when we find him, question him closely. His motorcycle must have been seen or heard by many along the way. If his story breaks down, he may condemn himself."

"Yesterday Richmond told me that someone saw my car or one like it standing empty outside here. Must I prove an alibi because of that?" queried Stirling coolly.

There was silence as he spoke, broken only by a suppressed gasp from Marjorie sitting behind Jimmie.

"I understand," Jimmie said. "That Dr. Netherthor told Richmond he had seen you driving in this direction."

"If I told him I was just taking a run in the evening, as one does, should I have to get someone to confirm my story?"

ROAD AND POWER BILLS ADVANCE IN UPPER HOUSE

Cashman and Loomis Measures Recommended for Passage in Senate

Madison —(P)—The Progressive power and highway measures gathered momentum in the legislature last week, the Cashman bill, providing for a four-cent gasoline tax, and repeal of the personal property tax on automobiles, being recommended for passage to the senate. The joint resolution by Sen. O. S. Loomis, Mauston, allowing municipalities to go beyond the 5 per cent assessment limit in bonded indebtedness in acquiring property for a public utility, was engrossed.

Open hearings on the Cashman bill were completed during the week, but the measure must be considered by the joint committee on finance before it is brought to the senate for debate.

The Loomis bill granting municipalities the right to create power districts reached the senate floor, being reported for passage by the committee on corporation and taxation.

Relief Measure

Relief measures occupied a good share of the spotlight. In the senate the bill permitting ice fishing until Jan. 1, 1932, designed as an emergency measure to provide aid to unemployed, was passed and immediately messaged to the assembly. A joint resolution directing the railroad commission to reduce public utility rates 10 per cent for six months was amended to increase the cut to 15 per cent. In the assembly a bill was introduced favoring small loan companies which would aid the needy in procuring necessities through borrowing money at standard interest rates to be set by the state industrial commission. The bill, introduced by Assemblyman Harold Groves, Madison, permits small loans to be made by anyone of good financial responsibility, experience, and character with net liquid assets of not less than $25,000.

Want Investigation

Perhaps the boldest step of the week was taken by Assemblyman D. M. Langve, Westby, when he introduced a resolution calling for an investigation of the state highway commission's relation with bituminous road material companies. It asked that a special committee of three assemblymen be appointed to investigate "the political, business and legislative activities of the bituminous road surfacing interests in Wisconsin and the acts of the state highway commission, its individual members and employees, in relation to highway matters."

A former governor of Wisconsin stepped before a legislative committee hearing to denounce a measure as "inappropriate, unnecessary and beneath the dignity of the legislature." Francis B. McGovern, Milwaukee, made this statement in reference to the joint resolution requesting the supreme court to reinstate Raymond Cannon, Milwaukee, as a member of the bar. Cannon was suspended from the bar nearly two years ago after being found guilty of professional misconduct. His petition for reinstatement was denied.

Long Debate

A measure of interests to the dairy industry was given final legislative approval. The joint resolution memorializing Congress to enact legislation prohibiting the coloring of oleomargarine with oil, which had been adopted in the senate, was concurred in by the assembly.

The longest debate on the assembly floor this session was over a joint resolution that the legislature go on record as opposed to the employment of husband and wife in the state service. The author, Carlton W. Mauthe, Fond du Lac, was supported by Assemblymen Sigurd Rasne and Sigman. Speaker Perry and Assemblymen Ellenbecker and Groves led the opposition to the measure, which failed to advance.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU
"AQUARIUS"

If February 10th is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 8.30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1.30 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Due to the unusually stimulating astrological influences, more mental energy and initiative than usual will be manifest, but there will be danger of running into difficulties for this very fact. Those with artistic or literary interests will turn out particularly good work. Young folk will make impulsive errors of judgment peculiar to inexperience.

Children born on this February 10th will have calm, contented, placative natures, and they will seldom display enthusiasm or surprise. They will seek the good things of life, and will endeavor to rise above mediocrity. They will be content being tied to any one's apron strings.

If you are a woman, and born on a February 10th, you are a valuable talker—there are many germs of ideas in your conversation, but the trouble is that most of your ideas remain in a germinal state. You have the air of possessing the most vigorous convictions, although few of them will stand an acid test of a profound argument. You are not intellectual, but you are bright and entertaining. You look down, and not up, for your boon companions. You are not willing to pay the price in study or effort to keep up with your superiors, and you are too vain to not be "it" with your pals. You are too self-centered to be unselfish, although you are capable of doing some very generous things.

If you are a man, you have an inferiority complex, which you seek to hide through your rather gruff manner, and an assumed air of independence. You should thoroughly prepare yourself for your life's work, as you are not a good bluffer, not ingenious enough to supply wits for lack of knowledge. Unlike your birthday sisters, you try to better yourself by associating with those from whom you can learn and improve. You are rather imitative, and are very observant. You are not a book student, but you learn quickly from seeing or hearing new things. You are a worshipper of the almighty dollar, and in your struggle to obtain it, you may overwork, or trample upon, other things which are of more vital importance to the development of your character and soul.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE BORN February 10th:

- 2—John E. Thomson — President of Pennsylvania R. R.

Garden Would Hardly Be Complete Minus Radishes

It would be rare indeed to imagine anybody starting a vegetable garden without planting a row of radishes. Everybody likes them. They are a year-around vegetable. They are always growing them somewhere for the market, but how much snappier they are when fresh pulled in the home garden.

Anybody in the world can grow radishes, even when they are planted so thickly that none of them ought to do anything a few will crowd their way to maturity. The one chief and universal fault in planting radishes is that they will be planted too thickly and because they are such a common obliging vegetable, few gardeners will take the trouble to thin them properly in order to realize a full and high-grade crop.

Radishes should be sown thinly and if not thinned they should be thinned when well above ground to give each radish two inches of room. Then you will have real radishes. If you want to make one good garden resolution resolve to plant radish seed thinly. Plant it in rows to accomplish this.

There are a great number of radish varieties all very much alike and varying little in quality. The chief difference is in color and shape and also in season of maturity. You can't go very far on any radish but you might as well get the best while about it, and Crimson Giants ranks among the best.

There are others a few days earlier but not enough so to make much difference. They, too, are usually smaller in size and hardly offer a good mouthful. Crimson Giant is one of the popular globe-shaped bright red types and it offers at least two good bites, if given any show at all. There are a number of these little radishes known as the French breakfast type, but Crimson Giants is the peer of them all.

The radish can be planted before the frost is well out of the ground, as it is very hardy, but to give the best radishes rich soil is needed. Fast growth and cool weather make the firm, solid, snappy radishes that are most desired. Hot, dry weather sends them to seed stems and spongy, pithy roots. Crimson Giant is especially commended because it is less susceptible to weather conditions than many other varieties.

Look over the radish list, long-rooted and short-rooted, but include a packet of Crimson Giants.

"SMALL LOAN" BILL BLOCKED IN HOUSE

Wisconsin Congressmen Carry on Fight Made by Late Lampert

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington—Wisconsin congressmen, carrying on the long fight made by the late Rep. Florian Lampert of Oshkosh, succeeded Saturday in blocking passage during this Congress of a "small loan" bill identical with the Wisconsin statute on which there has been much agitation in recent weeks.

Reps. James A. Frear of Hudson and Merlin Hull of Black River Falls, together with Rep. Fiorella La Guardia of New York, fought the measure when it was reached on the calendar of bills for the District of Columbia Saturday. At last it was withdrawn from the calendar to enable other needed and unopposed legislation for the National Capital be passed. As there will not be another "district day" this Congress, this kills the bill.

The "small loan bill," advocated by the Russell Sage foundation, permits 42 per cent interest to be charged on loans of $500 and less. Its advocates say that all higher interest is now charged on small loans, where they are possible, and that this rate of 42 per cent a month is the lowest at which financial institutions can make such loans. Its opponents call it a "loan shark" bill.

Lt. Gov. Henry Huber of Wisconsin charged last week that some members of the 1929 Wisconsin Legislature had been bribed to oppose repeal of this measure.

RARE COFFEE WINS COUNTLESS NEW USERS BY FLAVOR

Amazing Popularity of Hills Bros. Coffee Tribute to Roasting Process

Years of experiment by Hills Bros. have resulted in the origination and perfection of the only Controlled Roasting process in use today.

By Hills Bros.' patented process, the degree of roast is positively controlled. The quantity of coffee passing into the roaster about three pounds at a time—does not vary. The speed of the flow and the temperature remain the same, with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform. This roasting method is to a large degree responsible for the frequent question, "Why is Hills Bros. Coffee always the same?"

Comparisons show that Hills Bros. Coffee has a flavor no other coffee has. The ordinary method of roasting in bulk cannot insure a uniform roast because there is a lack of control.

The vacuum can, in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed, keeps the coffee fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is completely removed from the can and kept out. Coffee does not stay fresh in ordinary cans, even if air-tight. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold by grocers everywhere.

PICTURE RENTAL SERVICE POPULAR

Idea Conceived by Dr. Henry M. Wriston Meets Wide Favor

The picture rental service, an idea conceived by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college and instituted at the college last fall, has met with great popularity in schools throughout the midwest and also in several eastern schools, according to discoveries made by Dr. Wriston on a recent trip through Indiana and eastern states. Approximately 20 colleges and universities in Indiana alone are planning similar projects and Wesleyan University, where Dr. Wriston taught before coming to Lawrence, also is preparing a similar project.

According to the plan in operation at Lawrence, approximately 120 pictures, all reproductions of famous masters and other works of art, are made available to students for a rental fee of 50 cents each semester. The object of the picture rental service is to teach students to appreciate art through daily observation of artist work in their rooms. Students may purchase any of the pictures for the price the college paid, and former rental fees are deducted. The plan is becoming so popular among students at Lawrence that approximately 40 new pictures are to be added to the collection in the near future.

INTELLIGENT! HERE'S A TEST FOR YOU

By NEA Service.

New York. — If you are an intelligent person, you more than likely will possess the following characteristics quoted by Prof. Walter B. Pitkin as being possessed of such persons. The qualifications are taken from his book, "The Psychology of Achievement." They follow.

"Lively curiosity toward matters. A desire to investigate some of the matters for oneself."

"Strong trend to analyze whatever one thinks about, and to perceive the factors of the matter in their interrelations. Fairly active imagination."

"Unusually even performance over long periods; little tendency to deviate much from one's usual level of skill."

"Clear understanding of one's chief desires and aspirations; hence, concentration on dominant interest. Memory somewhat better than average and decidedly selective. Patience with details."

"Interest in reflection and observation much stronger than interest in handling things or managing people. Distinctly modest self-appraisal."

BEARS RETREAT AND GOOD GAINS MADE BY STOCKS

Broadest Advance of Year
Carries Many Stocks
Up Several Points

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York (AP)—The start of the week in the stock market found the bear faction in retreat.
The share list made one of the broadest advances of the new year, and trading set one of the brisker paces experienced since January. A wide assortment of issues sold up 1 to 3 points, with a few mercurial shares making wider gains. While week-end business and trade reports failed to provide a basis for the advance, shorts had evidently been unworried by the jolt received in Saturday's session.
General Motors sold up 2 points, one of the widest gains it has recorded in months, and other prominent issues such as U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Johns Manville, Adhesives and Union Pacific recorded advances of similar magnitude. Issues up 2 to 5 included Westinghouse Electric, Dupont, Republic Steel Preferred, Worthington, American Tobacco, Eastman, Allied Chemical and Case. Volatile issues such as Industrial Rayon and Auburn shot up more than 10 points. Issues up a point or so embraced a wide assortment of utilities, industrials and merchandising shares. In the main, calls and puts were inclined to lag. The oil broke out of their protracted sluggishness with gains of a point or so in standards of New York, New Jersey and California, reflecting favorable decision in the Socony-Vacuum merger case.
The bear faction had found its position none too comfortable during most of last week, but the significant character of the news from Washington for a time, together with a slackening of the recovery in business, had encouraged shorts to hang on, despite the solid condition of the market.
Reports of the past few days indicating a more conciliatory attitude among factions in Washington, together with indications that the attitude toward the vicissitudes of business recovery, finally disclosed the bear forces.
Strength of sterling exchange, relieving the pressure against London's gold stock, and indications that Paris is taking definite steps toward developing a market for foreign loans, were constructive developments in the foreign situation, while a decline in rates in the middle west, though still inadequate have tended to quiet the nervousness over the growing lack of water.
The fact that the market seemed to be governed largely by technical conditions, however, led to a conservative attitude in banking quarters. Most of the commonly used indices of business activity, as corrected for normal seasonal variation, show little change from December, and it is felt that real improvement in business will be needed to back up any sustained advance in share prices.
The abundance of credit has attracted considerable investment money into dividend paying stocks where current rates are regarded as safe, or current prices already allow for expected reductions. In January, against $47 for the 12 months of 1930, and only 23 for the full year of 1929. Convincing improvement in business, bankers say, would tend to check the tendency toward dividend reductions by influencing many firms to continue to make payments from surplus until normal earning power is restored.

MODERATE GAINS MADE BY STOCKS

Most of Impetus Is Derived
When Shorts Rush to Cover

New York (AP)—The curb market advanced today but as a rule the gains were moderate. Much of the impetus for the rally seemed to be derived from short covering, a result of last Saturday's improvement, although there was some evidence of bullish pool operations.
Vacuum Oil, on approval of its merger with Standard of New York, found the weekend accumulation of buying orders sufficient to lift the price 4 points at the opening. It settled back a point or two from the top. The terms of the merger give three shares of General Petroleum Corp., which is to be the name of the combined companies, for one of Vacuum, General Petroleum, on a cash issued basis, had been inactive pending the court decision, but is turned over briskly today, dropping 4 points to 25 from Saturday's closing figure as traders sought to establish its true market value.
Oils generally were the feature of the trading. Heavy calls and sales in comparative light sales and there were smaller advances in Gulf and Standard of Indiana. Cities Service was firm.
Some specialties were rather buoyant. New York Steam, Deere, Driver Harris, Walgreen and Newmont Mining made gains of at least a point. Technicolor, recently strong, touched a new high for the movement but reacted slightly.

MANAGE TO CONTROL SHRINKAGE OF HOGS

Market Strikes Balance
With Arrivals Equaling
Those of Week Ago

Chicago (AP)—Shrinkage of current hog receipts was controlled to so fine a point that the market virtually struck a balance today. Fresh offerings of 70,000 were included 31,000 billed straight to packers and were 4,000 less than arrived a week ago. Outside markets had 89,000. The total for the week was 169,000, the previous Monday. Holders were insistent on a steady price schedule, but initial bids were weak to 10c lower than Friday's average. Trading got under way slowly, with 160 to 180 lbs hogs at $7.85-7.90 showing little change. Strictly choice lights were held at $8.00 and above.

A further cut in bovine marketings did not meet with prompt response from local buyers. Eastern operators were in search of a limited number of good choice heavy steers. Buyers showed a distinct preference for the better grades of all weights. However, the bulk of the run consisted of just plain to good steers and a poorly proportioned supply of she stock. Barely steady prices were obtainable for the more desirable steers. Calf receipts of 2,000 were sufficient to supply the existing demand.

Holders of fat lambs of good to good to choice quality were imbedded with decidedly bullish prices to $10.00. Only 15,000 live muttons were estimated to arrive and some came in late. Cars reported in the forenoon carried no direct to packers.

AUXILIARY TO LEGION WILL OFFER COMEDY

"Aunt Lucia" to Be Presented at High School Auditorium

Kaukauna—A three-act musical comedy, "Aunt Lucia," will be presented Thursday and Friday at the high school auditorium by the Legion auxiliary. Jerry, played by Joseph Bayoregon, is mistaken for a rich old woman while masquerading, and becomes engaged to marry Professor Gaddis, one of his college teachers. Asked to make a donation of $50,000, and losing the affections of his sweetheart, Edith, Jerry finds himself in an embarrassing predicament. Prof. Gaddis, eccentric professor of the college, finally brings his romance to a climax with Dean Howard, played by Miss Edna Esler, when he finds that he has proposed to one of his own students. The discovery also unites Jerry and Edith, played by Miss Laura Zwick. Jerry's being mistaken for Aunt Lucia, the rich college alumna, also is responsible for bringing untold trouble to the romances of his chums and their sweethearts. They are George and Dick, characterized by John Taylor and Donald Kenney, and Betsy and Melvyn, played by Miss Edna Sager and Miss Joyce Petersen.

The request of a gift of $50,000 of Jerry, supposedly Aunt Lucia, is made by the college president, played by Henry Olin and his wife, played by Mrs. J. McCain. Jerry is also proposed to be a big butter and egg man from Omaha, played by Ed Rennie and Collins, Dick's father, played by Lester Brenzel.

Comedy parts of two freshmen are played by Layton Smith and Arthur Jacobson. Others supporting the cast are the fraternity president, played by Coleman, and club cheer leader, played by Melvin Sager. The play also includes three large choruses.

ASK COMMISSION TO REOPEN PROBE ON PAPER RATES

United Paperboard Co. Files Petition With Interstate Body

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Not satisfied with the lower rates on paperboard granted by the Interstate Commerce commission because of its complaint, the United Paperboard Co. has now filed a petition asking reopening and further argument of the case, which involves Fox River rates.

The rates complained of originally were for Washab, Ind., and Urbana, Ohio to Appleton, Menasha, and other Fox River points, Madison, Eau Claire and Milwaukee in Wisconsin, and Chicago and St. Paul. The rate to Appleton from Washab was 29.5 cents per 100 pounds while the company sought a rate of 20.5 cents; and to Appleton from Urbana the rate was 31.5 cents and 23.5 cents was asked. To Madison, the rates from Washab and Urbana were 31 cents and 31.5 cents, respectively while those sought were 17.5 cents and 21.5 cents.

Apparently the United Paperboard Co. is satisfied with the reduction to the Wisconsin points, while the I. C. C. made equal to 25 per cent of the first class rates established in both the Eastern Class Rate Investigation and the Western Trunk Line Class Rate, which became effective on April 1, 1931. However, it considers that Wisconsin points, particularly in the Fox River Valley, are accorded far more favorable rates to the highly competitive markets of Chicago and St. Paul than are Washab and Urbana and seek reopening and rehearing of the case before April 1, so that this "unreasonable rate alignment on paperboard" may be altered.

WISCONSIN THIRD IN PLAYING CARD TAXES

$261,946.30 Paid to Federal Government During Six Month Period

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Wisconsin was third among all the states in the amount of tax paid on playing cards during the last six months of 1930, according to statistics made public by the Internal Revenue Bureau and of the three leaders it was the only one showing an increase in 1930 over 1929.

For the six months ending December 31, 1930, Wisconsin paid Uncle Sam $261,946.30. Internal revenue from playing card taxes compared with $221,046.20 for the corresponding six months of 1929. Only Ohio and New Jersey surpassed the Badger State's record in either year. Ohio paid $1,330,686.10 in 1930, a decrease from its 1929 total of $1,414,751.80; while New Jersey's payments also decreased slightly, equaling $41,274.00 in 1930 as against $425,261.20 in 1929.

Statistics are also furnished for internal revenue payments on bonds of indebtedness and capital stock issues, with Wisconsin paying $49,747.35 in the last six months of 1930, just little more than half of the 1929 payment of $81,404.46; payments of tax on capital stock sales or transfers, $252,556, 1930 as against $1,192,54 in 1929; and tax on sales of produce for future delivery, $2,668.60 in 1930 as against $3,369.43 in 1929.

The whole room seemed to be on fire

(a true experience)

TWO year old Jack just wouldn't leave Daddy's matches alone. One day the dread thing happened. He started a blaze that ruined most of the living room furnishings. The insurance took care of the redecorating, but the rug, curtains and several pieces of furniture had to be replaced.

It was a bad time for them to buy furniture, for they'd scraped together about all they could to give Jean her second year at Normal. But Dad knew just where to go for a quick, friendly loan. And he wasn't disappointed when he and Mrs. Wrenn called at the Household office. Hundreds of thousands of other families, when in need of money, have come to Household for loans of $50 to $300, and they too were pleased with the courteous, friendly welcome they received. Besides, they saved because of Household's lower rate on loans over $100 up to $300—nearly one-third less than the usual charge.

They did not ask friends to sign for them; signatures of husband and wife were sufficient. And there were no embarrassing investigations among employers or relatives.
